Guard against speculation

Udall urges quick grab of Tocks land

Record Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, Monday called for the strengthening of a fund used to quickly acquire land for proposed parks in order to "put out the fires of speculation."

Spiraling land costs in the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and Tocks Island Reservoir projects are frequently cited as examples of what can happen when the recreation land is not purchased immediately after authorization by Congress.

Udall referred to the rising costs of the DWGNA in his brief statement before the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs Monday.

The Committee is holding hearings on a bill which would increase the sources of revenue for the Land and Water Conservation Fund and would allow the department to contract in advance for land to be included in a proposed park.

The Land and Water Conservation Fund, which has been in operation for three years, is used to purchase land for parks and recreation areas which Congress has authorized. Congress, however, has not appropriated any money for the fund.

At the present time, revenues for the fund come largely from entrance and other fees charged at national parks and recreation areas. Udall said he was in favor of having presently unmarked receipts from the National Forests and from mineral deposits, including those on the outer continental shelf, be added to the fund.

Other proposals have been to supplement the fund with appropriations from the treasury and to do away with the fund entirely and rely on general funding from the treasury.

Udall told the senators that generally speaking, the fund was successful.

Fund's shortcomings, he said, "is that there isn't enough money in it."

Land prices in the Pocono area have increased nearly 100 per cent since 1964. Since 1959, the acquisition cost estimate for the 48,000 acres comprising the DWGNA has risen from $17 million to $37.4 million. Interior Department officials concede that the $37.4 million will not be enough.

An estimated $54.3 million is needed to acquire the approximate 25,000 acres for the Tocks Island Reservoir. Combined acquisitions and completion of the projects is estimated at a total $200 million, but some officials report that this cost will soar to $350 million if the projects are not complete by 1975.

On the subject of land price escalation, Udall said that the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has estimated that it would need $3.6 billion over the next 10 years to purchase land. The prospective revenues from the fund are less than $1 billion, leaving a deficit of $2.7 billion.

An administration report on the legislation now before the Congress points out that the committee has authorized 23 new federal recreation areas (DWGNA is one of them) involving the acquisition of 250,000 acres of land at a total cost of $119 million.

Udall also asked for what he called "advance land purchase contract authority." The average time lag between the authorization of a park and the first appropriation is nine months. It is during this time that land prices often rise sharply.

Vo-tech plans go to Harrisburg

STROUDSBURG — The next step in a proposed Monroe County Vocational-Technical school is now in the hands of the State Department of Public Instruction following action taken during Monday night's meeting of the County School Board.

The board unanimously approved a motion to forward the "Articles of Agreement" for the vo-tech facility to the DPI for consideration.

The plans also call for a DPI approval of an "Operating Agreement" that provides for the creation of a joint committee made up of three members of each participating district to, in effect, operate the new educational facility.

If approved in Harrisburg the plan will be presented for action to each of the county school districts who have already approved the wording of the agreements.

The vo-tech operating agreement also calls for the creation of three separate advisory committees in addition to the joint committee.

In other action regarding the proposed school the board approved a motion by East Stroudsburg school director

Ralph Turn to conduct a survey of area businesses and industry to poll their feelings on a Vo-tech school.

Monroe County Superintendent of schools, Walter H. Schering, said he felt such a survey should be undertaken to assure all possible information would be available to school directors before action is taken on the proposal.

"If vo-tech is defeated it shouldn't be on the basis of insufficient information but for financial reasons," he added.

According to the Articles of Agreement the school would receive all of its funds from student enrollment in grades nine to eleven, and a ratio between the school's total enrollment and the total enrollment of the schools participating in vo-tech.

The board also approved a motion by Dr. Edmund Maggan, a Stroudsburg district director, to include a survey of pupils prior to final action by the school boards.

Schering added that the survey should be given to the students on a Friday for consideration with his parents over a weekend period and be returned on the following Monday.

Fluid drained from Blaiberg

CAPEI TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Fluid has formed around Philip Blaiberg's transplanted heart and doctors have tapped it several times with needles inserted into the sac surrounding the organ, a Groote Schuur Hospital spokesman said Monday.

"But this is not giving undue cause for alarm," the spokesman said. "His condition at the moment is satisfactory."

Blaiberg, 58, was first reported to have developed fluid around his new heart nine days after he received it.

Army thought him in Vietnam

'Lost' GI finds discharge

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — The Army, which admitted last month it "lost" an AWOL private for nearly nine months after assigning him to Vietnam and then found him, has decided to let him go permanently.

Pvt. Robert Worth, 23, of New Shrewsbury left this post as a civilian Saturday. In his pocket he carried a general discharge he was granted for reasons of financial hardship.

An Army spokesman said the "nature of his (Worth's) service was such that an honorable discharge was not warranted." The spokesman said Worth's service included an unexcused absence of nine months.

Rusk asserts policy

"The notion that American flag ships can be seized on the high seas by any country around the world is something that we just cannot accept," Rusk declared. "This is something we have not accepted throughout our history and we don't intend to start now."

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen it is incontrovertible that the Pueblo when first approached "was well beyond North Korea's 12-mile limit and North Korea knew this."

He also insisted that remarks by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in a nationwide television appearance Sunday should not have been interpreted as laying the groundwork for an apology in advance.

U.S. headquarters said 1,729 allied troops have been killed, 546 of them Americans and 1,169 South Vietnamese.

The toll of civilians killed, wounded and made homeless by the fighting was mounting into the many thousands. In Saigon, 46,700 homeless civilians were being sheltered in schools, hospitals, churches and Buddhist pagodas.

Pot to pot?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Outraged by reports that marijuana is so easily obtained on Florida college campuses that the price is dropping, the State Board of Regents Monday promised "no second chance for any student or professors involved in drug activity."

Small House plans rejected

SPECIAL TO THE RECORD
HARRISBURG — The Constitutional Convention Monday rejected two proposals that would have slashed the size of the House of Representatives.

First the delegates swamped a proposal for a 101-man limit that was presented by the Rev. John Roberts of Mount Airy, N.C. That vote was 135-14. Then they turned down an amendment to create a maximum of 151 and a minimum of 101. That vote was 103-40.

The present constitution provides for a minimum of 200 and at present the House has 283 members in districts that have been declared unconstitutional due to malapportionment.

Marines regain Hue by inches

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines and Communist troops fought foot by foot for control of Hue on Tuesday and street fighting persisted in parts of Saigon as the countrywide Red offensive entered its second week. The U.S. Command said 21,330 enemy have been killed.

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy dead represented more than one-third of the total force with which the Communists began their widespread attacks on 35 cities across South Vietnam. That force has been estimated by allied intelligence officers at about 60,000.

U.S. headquarters said 1,729 allied troops have been killed, 546 of them Americans and 1,169 South Vietnamese.

The toll of civilians killed, wounded and made homeless by the fighting was mounting into the many thousands. In Saigon, 46,700 homeless civilians were being sheltered in schools, hospitals, churches and Buddhist pagodas.

E-L trainmen talk strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — A federal mediator arrived in Cleveland Monday and set up meetings to discuss a threatened strike by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen against the Erie Lackawanna Railroad.

The key issue is the railroad's order to change working conditions at a railroad yard in Sharon, Pa.

The union said the railroad has ordered the changes in Sharon so that roadmen on the trains would be required to take on switching and car transfer duties now done by yardmen.

This, the union claims, is a violation of the National Railway Act.

Tough ahead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Police Chief Walter Headley, who sent special squads armed with shotguns and dogs into Negro areas in a "get tough" approach to crime during the Christmas holidays, Monday reported a sharp reduction in robberies and murders in January.

5 per cent asked on overseas trips

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration proposed Monday a graduated travel tax on spending in excess of $7 a day outside the Western Hemisphere and a 5 per cent levy on overseas plane and ship tickets.

These were major recommendations in the administration's program to cut by $500 million a travel spending gap which jumped to more than $2 billion last year. This gap is the difference between spending by Americans in other countries and spending in the United States by foreign visitors.

The program, which also includes sharp reductions in the duty-free allowance on goods brought back to the United States, was outlined by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler to the House Ways and Means Committee.

The exempt area, as defined by the bill, includes Canada, Mexico, Central America, South America, the Caribbean islands, Bermuda and the Bahamas. It does not include such distant points as New Zealand and many South Pacific Islands although they are shown in the Western Hemisphere in most atlases.

Allowances cut
The new program includes a cut in the duty-free allowance on souvenirs and other goods bought overseas from $100 to $10 and in the duty-free gift provision from $10 to $1 for each article. This would apply to U.S. residents returning from all countries except Mexico, Canada and the Caribbean area.

Fowler said the travel tax and ticket tax would cut the dollar drain by up to $300 million while the cuts in the duty-free allowances and customs collections reforms would save another $100 million.

The administration hopes to save another $100 million through President Johnson's appeal to Americans to defer unnecessary travel outside the hemisphere for two years.

Any person who spent $7 or less a day while in another country outside the hemisphere would pay no travel tax. The next $8 would be taxed at 15 per cent and anything above $15 a day at 30 per cent.

Although the 5 per cent ticket tax on airline tickets would apply generally, even to travel within the Western Hemisphere, the tax would cover ship tickets only to destinations outside the hemisphere.

The ticket tax would be permanent but the spending tax would expire Oct. 1, 1969, making it applicable during the main travel periods of both 1968 and 1969.

Extended stays exempt

There would be exemptions for individuals remaining abroad for more than 120 days in connection with a trade, business, profession or education. This would apply to students, teachers and businessmen.

The tax would be collected through the Treasury Department's customs service and the Internal Revenue Service.

Before leaving this country, each individual would file a statement indicating how much money and traveler's checks he was taking abroad, and pay an estimated tax. He would file a similar statement when he returned.

A formal travel-tax return would be filed with the Internal Revenue Service within 60 days after a person returned to this country and any tax due would be paid at that time.

Travel tax opposed by Rooney

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Fred B. Rooney Monday announced his opposition to the tax on American travel abroad and suggested his own alternatives.

Rooney outlined his alternatives in a letter he said he sent to the Secretaries of Defense, Commerce and Treasury.

"I have had reservations about restrictions on travel since this subject was advanced by the administration a month ago," Rooney said. "I have given it a great deal of thought and, try as I will, I can find no justification for my support of such limitations."

"I am convinced there are alternatives which, if pursued, with sufficient effort and determination, can achieve the desired result of reducing our balance of payments deficit and strengthen the American dollar."

The Bethlehem Democrat suggested Americans exercise voluntary restraints. The also suggested discouraging unnecessary spending by military and government civilian employees and dependents overseas. He suggested the use of military certificates or script and a system where American workers could spend foreign currency at American military installations.

He also suggested that Americans planning to visit persons in foreign countries should instead encourage those persons to come to the U.S.

LBJ asks student aid, college cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed Monday increased federal assistance for college and university students and recommended a sharp cut in construction aid for institutions of higher learning.

The President's annual education message to Congress placed major emphasis on financial help for students in higher education and called for appropriations for this purpose of $374.8 million for fiscal year 1969. That's an increase of $53 million over the present year.

Johnson proposed a modest increase in federal spending for education at all levels and his message basically reflects a reshuffling of priorities. For example federal outlays for the new fiscal year beginning next July 1 will total about 13 per cent of the total cost of education in this country.

18 letters sent by commission

Unnamed state school districts told to desegregate

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Human Relations Commission said Monday it has directed a number of unidentified school districts in Pennsylvania to submit plans for racial desegregation by July 1.

However, the commission refused to identify the districts or specify how many were involved.

The Shafer Administration news office was called in for assistance to no avail.

Jack Conmy, Gov. Shafer's public relations secretary, said David H. Kurtzman, Superintendent of Public Instruction, told him 18 letters were sent out on commission stationery.

However, Conmy had no more success than reporters in securing the names of the districts.

Conmy said the commission believed it was protected from the state's right-to-know law since the Human Relations Act permits the agency to withhold identification in any proceedings until the time of public hearings. He added that he has asked the Attorney General's Office for an opinion on that interpretation.

The desegregation directive was sent out last Friday, the commission said, on the basis of a statewide agency survey which determined that the unidentified districts contained "the greatest degree of racial imbalance" in the state.

The letter was co-signed by Commission Chairman Harry Boyer and Kurtzman, whose department had prepared the survey questionnaire.

Boyer told the Associated Press when queried:

"The law is clear that confidentiality must be preserved in all instances up to the point of public hearings. In addition, the commission believes it can far better expect the kind of cooperation from these districts as will be needed to correct racial imbalance by respecting such confidentiality."

Kurtzman said he merely co-signed the letters as a matter of routine, adding that the department assisted in preparing and mailing the survey.

"I could not tell you what criteria the commission used in determining the imbalance. This is the commission's prerogative," Kurtzman said.

Conmy took sharp odds with the commission decision to withhold the name of the districts.

"It was in error for the commission to issue such a release without being willing to name the districts that are directed to submit the desegregation plans," Conmy said.

"This immediately makes every district suspect by guilt by association. Any district that receives this letter can make it public at its whim."

"I see no point in not disclosing the names so long as the commission has taken a half-step in issuing a release."

The commission, with the assistance of the Department of Public Instruction, undertook a statewide survey recently to determine the racial composition of each school building in the state.

The survey resulted after the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled that the commission does have authority to deal with de facto school segregation. The court had overruled an appeal by the Chester School District.

Chester has been ordered to submit a plan of desegregation. The commission added that it expects letters would be sent to additional districts later which is found to have a school segregation problem in lesser degree.

It offered districts all the professional assistance,

Witness convention finalized

BANGOR — Arrangements have been completed for the forthcoming semi-annual circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, March 8 through 10, at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building, Bangor.

Joseph Banko, convention manager, and Lawrence A. Held, Sr., circuit supervisor, met recently in the East Stroudsburg Kingdom Hall, with the assembly personnel which represented more than 20 departments.

Held directed the acquiring of supplies for the cafeteria which is operated for the delegates during the three days and suggested organizing the volunteer workers in sufficient time to accomplish the necessary work.

The title of the public talk, "Why Does God Permit Wickedness?" was also announced at this meeting. This Bible lecture will be given by Christian H. Weining, special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Sunday, March 10 at 3 p.m.

Sessions of the convention are free and interested persons are invited to attend.

Local representatives attending the kick-off meeting were Stephen Bortlik in the installation department, Carl R. Howell in the trucking department, Hayden S. Howell in the immersion department, and Roger Nordmeyer in the trucking department.

Pike Commissioners active

Humane Society given $500

MILFORD — A $500 appropriation for the Pike County Humane Society was approved by the Pike County Commissioners at their regular monthly meeting Monday.

The $500 will go toward the estimated $2,000 Humane Society expenses for 1968.

Commissioners appropriated a total $250 in 1967 to the Humane Society, but the funds were given in mid-year.

Mrs. Harriet White, president, requested the appropriation during a brief session with the Commissioners. The Humane Society does not operate a shelter, but pays the Port Jervis - Deerpark, N. Y. Humane Society for use in their shelter.

Commissioners also decided to draw up specifications for renovation work in the Court-house.

Expanded office

The renovation would include expanded office space for Sheriff Arthur Jebson and construction of a fire wall in the prothonotary's office. Other minor repairs will be included. No estimated cost of the renovations was given Monday.

The purchase of various equipment was also authorized. The authorization calls for purchase of three filing cabinets for the Sheriff's office; typewriter for the prothonotary; calculator for the treasurer's office and step-ladder for the law library. No price for the equipment was given.

In other action, the Commissioners, who met behind closed doors most of the day, appointed three persons to the Soil and Water Conservation District.

Appointed were Leo Sporer, Blooming Grove Township; Albert F. Heberling, Matamoras.

The Conservation District representation had been increased previously to seven members. The other directors are Norman Jelke, Commissioner George Counts, Julio Santos, Milford Townships and William Davis, Milford.

Election certified

Commissioners also certified the election of officers for the Pike County Child Welfare Bureau. They are Gerard Adams, Hawley, RD, president; Rev. Raymond O'Neill, Matamoras, vice president, and Mrs. Leland Ryder, Matamoras, secretary.

Appointed to the Child Welfare Advisory Committee were Mrs. Ernest Brandner, Shohola; Rev. Robert Kirk, Matamoras; and Francis Thorsen, Blooming Grove.

The resignations of Mrs. Ruth Case, Lackawaxen Township assessor, and Lucien Lock, Delaware Township assessor were also accepted.

Daniel Sullivan, chairman of the Pike County Planning Commission and Joseph Staley, Pike County Agricultural Agent, also met with commissioners to establish a meeting between township planning commissions and supervisors to discuss the need for professional services and county planning problems.

Commissioners set the meeting date for 1:30 p.m. March 2, in the Delaware Valley High School. The meeting will be open to the public.

The Commissioners went into executive session again early in the afternoon after briefly opening the closed session to officially announce what business had been transacted.

Barrett Y lists new programs

MOUNTAINHOME — Two new programs have been scheduled by the Barrett Branch of the YMCA in Mountainhome.

A sewing class supervised by Mrs. Charlotte Price will be held for seven weeks starting Thursday, Feb. 15. It will be held each Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. until March 28.

A bridge tournament directed by Mrs. Harold Beseker is scheduled March through May on the first and third Tuesday of each month. It starts March 5.

After the six nights, trophies will be awarded to the winners. Details are available by calling the Barrett Y.

Portland taxes due

PORTLAND — The local tax collector, Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter has announced that Feb. 28 will be the last day to pay real estate, per capita and occupation taxes for 1967 taxes. All real estate taxes must be returned to the County Court-house at Easton on March 1, and occupation and per capita taxes for the school district to the Bangor Area School District at Bangor.

McDade favors space cut

WASHINGTON — Rep. Joseph M. McDade (R - Pa.) suggested that the space program might be a good place to start trimming federal spending and cutting the $186 billion budget. President Johnson proposed.

"There is not much in going to the moon if we can't live decently at home," Rep. McDade said in his critical appraisal of America's spending program.

The 10th Congressional District representative, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, made the remarks in a discussion with Sen. Hugh Scott (R - Pa.) and Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, a candidate for the Republican nomination for the seat of Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D - Pa.).

"The President has to come forward to the country with some very straight forward talk about the situation that we find ourselves in," said McDade, who represents Pike County.

Set priorities
"Where should we set up priorities and begin to cut back? The first place we, perhaps, ought to start is in the space program," said the Scranton Congressman.

He charged that a large quantity of previously appropriated but unspent funds remain in the space program.

He also urged that ways be found to finance the development of an American supersonic passenger plane without involving tax funds.

McDade described the President's request for increased funds for the supersonic transport program as "a red flag about his willingness to look into this budget as hard as he should."

A number of members of Congress have been trying to find ways of financing the project without involving public funds, McDade pointed out. "I think we're going to have to continue to do that," he added.

Geake named president of gun club

WIND GAP — Granville Geake was appointed president of the Plainfield Rod and Gun Club at a recent meeting in the American Legion home, Wind Gap.

Geake announced that the president, fills the unexpired term of Robert Wagner, who resigned. Clarence J. Luckey was appointed vice president.

Geake announced that the club will purchase pheasants this year. He also announced that tickets for the 27th annual Wild Life dinner to be held March 18 in the Northampton Memorial Community House are now available.

The organization now has 83 members. The next meeting will be 8 p. m. March 7 in the American Legion home.

Post offices need burglar alarms

A new post office is going up in East Stroudsburg and let's hope it will have a burglar alarm.

Air conditioning, among the modern designs, can be sacrificed but it should be clear to Uncle Sam that an investment in a burglar alarm could very quickly pay off.

The Stroudsburg post office was recently remodeled expensively and while it does have some modern protective equipment in key places, it had no burglar alarm to sound the warning that it was being sacked last weekend.

The loss is estimated at something over $75,000 in stamps and although postage stamps are not as negotiable as money, that's a hefty haul.

Theft of stamps from post offices is not an uncommon thing. Law enforcement agencies have had dozens in the Northeast during the last year. There are "fences" who will buy the stolen stamps for something like 20 to 30 cents on the dollar. The fences then resell the stamps at a smaller discount to "legitimate" businesses that do a large amount of mailing.

It is clear that thieves have a way to profit from stolen stamps and, of course, there are often other valuables in post offices. Registered mail was stolen in East Stroudsburg about a year ago.

It is impractical to provide the size police force necessary to thoroughly patrol our community 24 hours each day. The most reasonable deterrent is protection at the source with a system to frighten the thief and alert help.

The government ought to be able to buy a couple of good alarm systems for $75,000—if it's not too late.

Senate tandem

A vacant chair was an effective symbol in Joseph S. Clark's campaign which resulted in his election to the U.S. Senate. By this means he dramatized a major issue, the absentee record of his opponent, James H. Duff, who sought re-election.

Senator Clark's chair has been unoccupied while he and his recent bride visited Vietnam and the Far East, and this overseas journey is one of a number Mr. Clark has made. The fact that it was timed for the opening weeks of the congressional session rather than during a recess would seem to prove that a mission of overriding importance is involved, but that is hardly the case. The principal development from the jaunt, as in those of other self-appointed diplomats who have visited the war zone was the need for added security measures by military personnel who have plenty of other work to do.

However, Senator Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania's other representative in the upper house of Congress, is back in Washington after having played truant since last fall with the result that he missed 77 roll calls. He was lecturing at Oxford University during that time and although he received payment for that service, claims to have sustained a loss of $3,000 in official salary. The single break his long stay abroad came in October when he flew to Washington aboard an Air Force cargo plane to cast a vote on civil rights legislation.

Senators Clark and Scott have acknowledged from time to time that they vote on the same side of major issues 77 per cent of the time. This is an unusual record for the extremely liberal Democrat and an Old Guard Republican, but they have much more in common than residence in Philadelphia. The impression grows and grows that they alternate in filling the same chair in the Senate.

Stamp news

New issues ahead

The Illinois Sesqui-centennial six-cent commemorative will have its first day sale at Shawneetown, Ill., Feb. 12. March will see two issues, one the eight-cent airmail postcard on March 1 at New York City, and the 15-cent Oliver Wendell Holmes regular in the Prominent American Series March 8 at Washington.

The United Nations will issue the second stamp in its Art Series March 1. This will be a six-cent regular issue and a 75-cent value for registered mail in the same design. The design of both stamps will be the Hendrick Starck Statue. The Canada will release the five-cent Gray Jay Feb. 15 and the five-cent commemorative for the 20th anniversary of First Meteorological Readings.

The Postmaster General has announced that the six-cent Roosevelt coil issue will be changed to the vertical form instead of the present horizontal form as this is creating problems for use in vending machines. The time and place will be announced within the next 30 days. There will be no change in the regular sheet Roosevelt stamp.

Club news

The Pocono Mts. Stamp Club will meet tonight at 8 p.m., the last meeting before the Exhibit Feb. 17-18. Visitors are always welcome.

Holy candidate!

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon's surprising announcement burst on an unsuspecting political world the other day even the experts here in Washington were caught unprepared. There was nothing but shock and amazement in Capitol Hill corridors and at the bar of the National Press Club.

"Frankly, I just never expected this," Joseph Allwell, the famous syndicated columnist told me. "Imagine, Richard Nixon trying a comeback after all these years. Why, it's almost enough to give one faith in the future, except that there is no future because we are all doomed by the bomb."

The celebrated reporting team of Errors and Nofacts was caught flatfooted. Rowland Errors confessed that none of his secret, private sources had even hinted at a Nixon candidacy. "The last we'd heard," said Robert Nofacts, "was that Nixon planned to practice law in New York, or was it Montana?"

Drew Piercing, perhaps the most widely-read of all Washington columnists, was flabbergasted. "Nothing my legmen have gotten from Nixon's files indicated that he planned to run for President again. I refuse to believe his announcement until I get confirmation from the Capitol boiler-room men. In the meantime I shall call for a Senate investigation of something, I'm not sure what."

When I told Walter Lipservice, the fourth estate's pundit emeritus, that Nixon had announced his availability, Walter sighed and said, "Oh, my, this comes as a thunderbolt. I'll have a statement for you shortly, just as soon as I call Bobby Kennedy to find out what I think."

In the offices of the International News there was panic while researchers desperately went through the files hoping to find enough on

Richard Nixon to rush out a quick profile. Finally, one clerk, who received IN's usual $10,000 bonus for good work, unearthed the fact that Nixon once was vice president, under Eisenhower, Dwight D.

There was similar astonishment and confusion on Capitol Hill. A man close to Gov. George Romney said the Nixon announcement came out of the blue. "We were led to believe we would have the field to ourselves," he said. "Nixon never indicated, by word or deed, that he might try to grab the nomination. I'm afraid we've been brainwashed again!"

Only Newsweek magazine, in its issue of Dec. 32, contained a hint: "While Romney is the only announced candidate, other Republicans may try for the nomination." That should have prepared us, but it didn't.

CAPITOLISMS

$185 billion isn't such a big budget. What with increasing inflation, within a few years that will be the price of a loaf of bread.

So far the United Nations has been reluctant to do anything about North Vietnam and North Korea — but it sure has cracked down on Rhodesia.

The rest of the world is beginning to realize that American dollars are backed not with gold, but mostly with baloney.

It's not fair that LBJ seems to be looking younger all the time. Thanks to him, the rest of us are aging too fast.

Muddler visits U.S.

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Harold Wilson is displaying the art of the British for making the best of a bad time. He is muddling through. In deep trouble at home, he is hoping to turn his visits abroad into a domestic asset.

Wilson's troubles have been somewhat exaggerated. The Economist of London reflects: "If Mr. Wilson's position were really as bad as it has been painted in most British newspapers, it would be a miracle if he could remain in public life, let alone be Prime Minister." At the same time, the journal concedes that the Prime Minister and his government have lost the confidence of much of the country "by their central failure to manage the economy."

Tired and dispirited, Wilson made two bad speeches in mid-January. The first, at a meeting of the parliamentary Labor Party on Jan. 17, seemed to indicate a temporary loss of political nerve. Again in Commons on the next day Wilson — in one American view — "bumbled, hesitated, and lost his way in inconsequentialities." The immediate result was rebellion in his own party.

Then, fortunately, came a three-day visit to Moscow. Nothing in the joint communique which was issued on Jan. 24 encouraged hope that Wilson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had made any progress toward finding a way to get Vietnam peace talks started. The message merely stated agreement that a settlement should "fully respect the exclusive and inalienable right of the peoples of the region to manage their own affairs."

Britain and the Soviet Union had supplied co-chairmen for the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences on the Vietnam - Cambodia - Laos area. Wilson had tried in vain in two visits to Moscow in 1965 to win Russian agreement to reconvening the Geneva meetings. The Russians then as now said they lacked authority to represent Hanoi in this regard.

The Jan. 24 communique did not reflect any concrete improvement in Anglo-Soviet relations, which of late have been at least polite and correct. But Wilson is reported to have returned to London visibly refreshed. His talk to his party on Jan. 25, in the words of Douglas Houghton, the PLP chairman, left the Labor members "more cheerful, more responsive than they had been lately."

Harold Wilson comes to this country for talks with President Johnson on Thursday and Friday on something of a rebound. The British press has by no means been silenced. Devaluation of the pound sterling was a humiliating procedure for Wilson. Already there is speculation about a second devaluation.

The Conservative-leaning Sunday Telegraph comments bitterly but still in the muddling-through tradition: "What Mr. Wilson has done is to saddle this country with a set of ministers who are in a position neither to govern nor to resign. He has so organized our political affairs that the country has no alternative but to resign itself, if only temporarily, to what is in fact an intolerable situation."

Perhaps the gloomiest aspect of Wilson's visit — which could not have been foreseen — is the timing. He arrives within a week of the breakdown of the Tet (New Year) truce. Moreover, our people are certainly less likely than they might have been to talk of negotiations after the bold attacks by the Viet Cong on Jan. 30 on Saigon.

Reaching into Reserves new power of President

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY
WASHINGTON — When President Johnson Jan. 25 ordered over 14,000 military reservists to active duty in connection with the Pueblo incident, it marked the first time that standby Presidential authority to call up the reserves ever had been used.

In two earlier callups, involving the Berlin Wall in 1961 and the Cuba missile crisis in 1962, President Kennedy requested and received special callup authority from Congress.

President Johnson, however, did not go to Congress for special authority because Congress in 1966 broadened the Presidential power to order reservists to active duty.

Only ready reservists — those who participate in periodic drills and an annual summer training camp — are subject to Presidential callup. Even under the new, broadened callup powers, Congress still must authorize a callup of standby reservists or retired reservists.

National Guardsmen have been federalized to deal with civil disorders under Presidential authority to suppress insurrections.

Pre-1966 Callup Powers
President Kennedy faced the Berlin and Cuba crises with some standby callup authority. He could have ordered up to one million ready reservists to active duty in a national emergency.

But a declaration of national emergency is a drastic move likely to produce war hysteria at home and abroad. President Kennedy wanted to avoid such a declaration in the overheated, crisis atmosphere of Berlin and Cuba.

And so in both instances, Mr. Kennedy asked Congress for special callup authority. Congress responded by authorizing a callup of 250,000 reservists in the Berlin crisis (155,800 were called) and 150,000 in the Cuba crisis (14,200 were called).

Congress in 1966 broadened the President's callup authority through legislation which allowed the President, until Jan. 30, 1968, to order reservists to active duty without declaring a national emergency.

The new authority was contained in a rider to the fiscal 1967 appropriations bill for the Defense Department.

The sponsors of the rider, Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Richard B. Russell (D. Ga.) and ranking Committee Republican Leverett Saltonstall (Mass. 1945-67), intended that it would allow the President, without a declaration of national emergency, to call up individual reservists who had avoided duty in Vietnam by joining a reserve unit.

The rider drew strong opposition in the House, and the final version of the amendment limited the callup to certain individual reservists while providing authority for activating reserve units, all without a national emergency declaration.

Reservists' Rights

Reservists called to active duty to meet crises such as the Pueblo incident are granted re-employment rights under the 1967 extension of the military draft. To exercise his re-employment rights, a reservist must apply to his preservice employer within 90 days after being released from active duty.

Under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, activated reservists can seek through the courts to defer certain financial obligations contracted for in civilian life.

In general, the Act gives reservists protection against default judgments and provides special rights to have default judgments set aside and to have court action stayed in civil suits.

The Act also provides protection in matters involving interest on debts, leases, evictions and premiums on insurance policies.

Japan's expansion

TOKYO — The rise of Japan as a colossus of industrial strength is enhancing the U. S. entry into the Pacific Era.

It is altering significantly the whole picture in the Pacific.

It gives the U. S. — Japanese alliance unmatched strength by combining the military power of the U. S. with the economic power of Japan in the common cause of peace and development.

It enables the United States and Japan to begin to share more equally the burden of economic aid to the emerging countries of Southeast Asia where economic growth can bring political stability.

It is giving practical leadership to regional cooperation among non-Communist Asian nations and is providing a striking example of how much a free economy rooted in democratic institutions can accomplish.

These are the ways Japan is helping to alter the once dim prospects in the Pacific so that some light is becoming visible on the horizon.

Comparing the Japan of today with what it was when I was here four years ago, I find three things particularly impressive:

ONE — The Japanese are successfully achieving a unique place in history, heretofore believed unattainable. They were winning the status of one of the world's super-powers without the possession of super-weapons — indeed, without the possession of more than a handful of conventional forces.

Today Japan is one of the world's industrial giants — and is continuing to grow. There is no end in sight; there is no visible limit. It is outdistancing West Germany to become the third most productive and powerful economy. Its per capita income has been going up an average of 14 per cent yearly for the past seven years. Its growth rate in GNP has been more than 10 per cent a year for a decade. And there are American economists who daringly foresee that both Japan's GNP and per capita income will match those of the U. S. before the century is out.

The Japanese are putting no ceiling on their potential and they have no reason to do so. They are not a ceiling-minded people.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Anxiety and drugs

In a world threatened by statistics of death and destruction, fears, confusion and emotional tension, many people have resorted to tranquilizers in an effort to escape from reality.

During the past 25 years a great many drugs have been created that give to people a sense of wellbeing by helping them to run away to a world of fantasy. All kinds of drugs are now available to deaden the pain of living, relieve people of responsibility and to lessen their sensitivity to the world around them.

Those who depend on these tranquilizers like to call this the "Age of Anxiety." Every age was called the "Age of Anxiety" by those who were unable to come to grips with their problems and to solve them. For them the "Age of Anxiety" was an easy out (that allowed them to escape with drugs without a sense of guilt).

Dilly Problems

Has anybody ever known any sustained period in their lives without problems, emotional upsets, family disturbances and extensive psychoneurotic behavior? I doubt that anyone has ever been free of one or more problems in any given day of their life.

The real art in solving a problem is to come face-to-face with it, recognize it and be unafraid to solve it. Tranquilizers are valuable only as a temporary means of support. They cannot, and must not, be used and abused to the point that they deprive the person of his own dignity in facing problems.

Choose Drugs Carefully

Physicians choose these drugs with great care. Some of them are used for minor disturbances while others are employed for severe periods of depression. Often a drug helps a patient to use his own inner strength, but it is an error for the patient to believe that a drug will create new strength, where it did not previously exist.

Drugs are never a long-term escape from problems that can only be solved with psychotherapy.

There is no doubt that "mood elevating" drugs can be helpful. They must, however, be used only for the duration that they are given and in the doses that are prescribed.

Become Dependent
Many patients become very dependent on these drugs and then, contrary to advice, find ways and means of buying them illegally. There is a fine shade of distinction between dependence upon these drugs and actual addiction.

The barbiturates can be classed as a form of tranquilizers and are most definitely addictive drugs. Certainly, they can help to blot out neurotic problems, but in no way are they a solution of them.

Doctor's Help Needed

They can help with an additional few hours of sleep, but in essence they blanket the underlying problems that need expression and can only be helped by open discussion with a doctor, psychiatrist or psychologist.

There is a far greater abuse and misuse of these drugs, generally known as tranquilizers, than is commonly suspected. Only the user can ask himself the truthful question, "Am I escaping the realities of living through the tiny pellets of fantasy?"

"You pays your money and you takes your choice!"

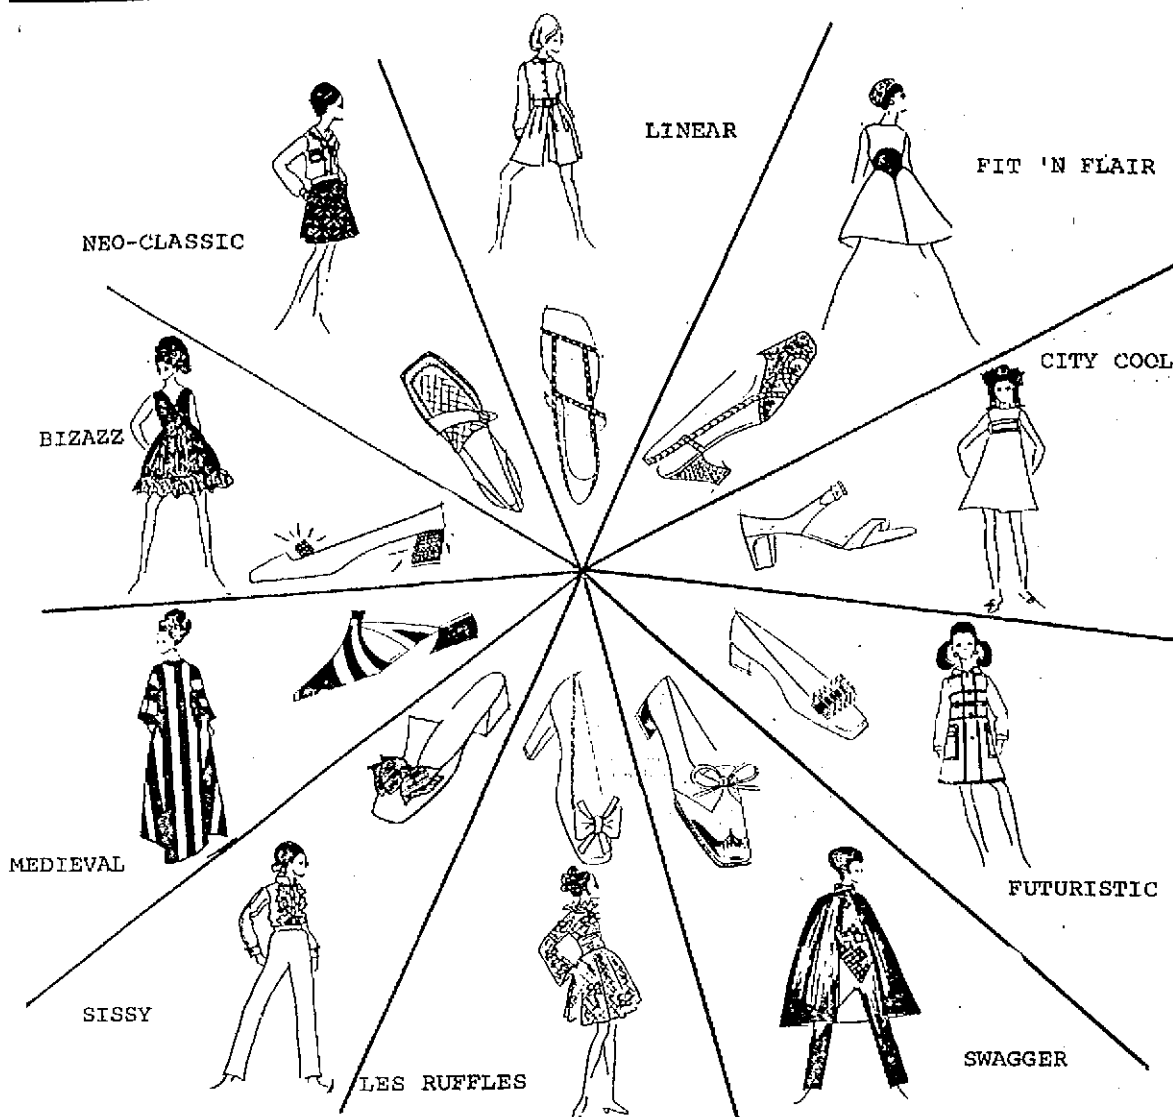

Remember how nice it was to have old Mr. Bailey (or Mr. Banducci, or Mr. Bernstein) say Good Morning? And ask about how the oldest was doing at school this semester? And tell you about his azaleas and wasn't it a shame the way the Town Council was handling the park?

And maybe we forget that there wasn't any lettuce in the winter. That you had your choice of one brand of canned Salmon. That in the summer, the one sure topic at the dinner table was whether or not the butter had really turned too much to use.

The fact is, Mr. Bailey had the only game in town. He didn't have too much competition—and you didn't have too much choice.

These days, if your regular store doesn't have bagels or fresh strawberries or convenient parking or nice clerks or seven different kinds of snack crackers... well, you don't even stop to think about it—you just go to a store that does. That's the way the system works—"you pays your money and you takes your choice", including conversation, if you want it.

The Pocono Record

From Gainsborough to Bonnie and Clyde, fashions this spring are for role-playing and the shoe completes the costume.

Stepping into a role

Stroudsburg — The Christmas boots have had a real workout this winter. So have the old fashioned galashes and gumboots or anything that provides traction on slippery sidewalks and slushy crossings. They look it, too, especially with the white line left by snow-melting chemicals.

When the sidewalks finally clear, and the temperature rises to the point where women will feel their ankles are safe from frost-bite, they will be stepping high, wide and handsome until they become accustomed to the new lighter foot.

They will also be casting careful eyes at their shoe wardrobes. If last summer they needed the warning to blunter toes and lower heels, they'll at least have shoes to start walking with. But spike heels and needle toes are definitely dated as at least year-before-last. In fact, such shoes on the sales' tables during the midwinter sales are still there, ranks unbroken, even at giveaway prices.

The all-purpose black, brown or even Navy blue shoes will be all right, but lacking in the special oomph that changes a Spring suit or coat into a costume.

And this definitely is the year of the costume — a time to dress for make believe, to play a role. In the most conservative citadels of fashion women are done up like heroines in swirling capes and riding boots, maybe with ear-high turtlenecks and lady spy hats, all topped with an air of derring-do. Or women wear long and languid drifits of Edwardian ruffles, completing the look with a parasol and snowy slippers and a straw bowler strewn with ribbons.

This spring, the shoes for role-playing are as varied as the offerings of a repertoire theatre. When a costume calls for ribbons-in-the-hair, there's a curvy pump with a bow at the toe. With a linen Cavalier suit with ruffles at the neck and wrist, there's a high-tongued museum shoe with an Etruscan buckle or a poet's ribbon tie, which also goes with the Bonnie and Clyde suits.

For the brisk shoes, there are oxfords, loafers, shoe boots, shells and straps. Oxfords manage to look jaunty with flash-fire colors.

If you succumb to the lure of new shoes you might watch out for specific trends, pointed out by the National Footwear Institute.

In toe shape, look for the broad rounds and squares, the attenuated vamps that make the foot look short; the baby doll, walled and blunted; and the broad squares that are soft and natural looking; and the wide rounds, shaped like the classic English child's shoe.

When the broader toe shapes first came in they were always used with lowered heels. Now that they begin to look right, the shoemakers are experimenting with a new, higher heel. They are inching up, but the highest is only about 2½ inches, so anything resembling a spike is still out.

Throats are taking the plunge, paring vamps to little nothings. Sides are cut down, too, leaving only the barest shell or may have no sides at all in a d'orsay cut.

Later the sandals will be coming in. This is hardly good news for women, ruefully contemplating those needle-pointed shoes they're storing away in the back of the closet and at the sides the bunyons and ingrown toenails those shoes left behind.

However the city sandals with broad straps and covered backs or with opened heels and high-buckled fronts can hide a lot of foot-faults.

There is a word of warning if you are buying new shoes. Be sure you do a lot of floor-walking before you take them home. As many women have discovered to their dismay after they've taken them home and worn them for a busy day, you may need to take a half-size larger.

With a pointed-toe shoe, the big toe had somewhere to go, even if not in the right direction. But a broad-toed shoe, unless it's walled, pushes down on a toe that can't get away, which makes for a lot of discarded shoes under bridge tables, and a lot of women limping their way home.

Woman's Club Federation sets conservation projects

Harrisburg — May 1 has been set as the date for dedication of a planing in Rowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve, Washington Crossing, to honor Mrs. H. Clair Henry, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs.

The announcement was made at the recent meeting of the state board of directors at Harrisburg. Mrs. Samuel A. Wilhelm, conservation chairman, also announced the second annual Pennsylvania Youth Conservation Day on June 22 with ceremonies at Camp Kanawake, Huntingdon County. Clubs will be asked to organize youth groups to participate in the conservation program. "Howdy" litterbags are available for distribution among the clubs.

The state selection committee has started reviewing the almost 200 applications for the anticipated $500 scholarships to be awarded to 50 students in related fields of mental retardation.

"Abatement of Ear Pollution" was the theme of a resolution presented by Mrs. P. Nelson Alexander, legislation chairman, urging that legislation be prepared and presented to the General Assembly of the Commonwealth to give authority to the state department of health to control noise.

Strunks honored on 62nd anniversary

East Stroudsburg — Even though Mrs. Harry B. Strunk of 211 Anadolink St., East Stroudsburg, was a patient in Marmont Manor, their 62nd wedding anniversary didn't pass without fanfare.

Emma R. Flyte of Easton, they were married in Philadelphia by Rev. William Dingel who earlier had been pastor of the Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian Church.

All the residents and the staff joined them in celebrating the occasion in a party planned by Mrs. Beatrice Heller.

Mr. Strunk, a native of Stroudsburg, was employed by Patterson-Kelley in East Stroudsburg for 35 years before he retired in 1955.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Julius Caruso stopped to ask a blind lady if he might help her across Park Ave. and the politely firm reply was, "Yes — when the light changes."

How many really senior glaucoma dolls in the public eye (Rose Kennedy, Lady Bird Johnson, Mrs. Meriwether Post, etc.) have gray hair? Answer: none. Audrey Hepburn was rushed to the American Hospital in Paris after slitting a toe on a needle abandoned on Givenchy's fashion-premiere floor; doctors pronounced her condition sew-sew.

Sorry, Bennett. They would have you think the mini-fur frock Liz Taylor will wear at their N.Y. premiere of "Dr. Faustus" was designed by R. Burton. The Post Office quietly okayed employees' beards only if trimmed neatly, banned beads on hippie-mail sorters and gals were ordered to tie tresses back; latter a safety order but should separate the sobs from the nealinks; and they all should keep a civil service tongue in their heads.

New Caribbean cruise-scheme — floating gambling joints operated by The Boys — "Spofford" and "The Staircase" grabbed enthusiastic reviews but apathetic ticket response. . . . Nell Simon's "Plaza Suite" may be the superb hit the 1967-68 stage season so sadly seeks: its tryout tour reviews are but wonderful.

Ginger Rogers & "Hello, Dolly!" grossed $99,581 in one Philly week, a record. . . . There's a broken wallet for every ambition on Bdwy, but there's still huge money around: Sergio Mendez and his "Brasil 66" group grabbed $28,000 in one day at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall. . . . And "Holiday On Ice" skated to the bank with $425,000 in one nine-day Ingleside, Calif., engagement — $53,000 for one show!

Bandleader Buddy Rich's $50,000 federal tax wallop was a criminal conviction and he could drum up a year in the prison band. . . . Boston's new "rock center" of all proper places: new groups from Beantown are the Beacon Street Union, the Ultimate Spinach, The Orphans, the Magic Mushrooms. . . . Age of Lunacy: in "Planet of the Apes" there's a "kissing scene" between "astronaut" Charlton Heston and Kim Hunter — playing a chimpanzee!

Rex Harrison will star in Christopher Isherwood's "Christmas Carol" Dickens' rewrite for TV. . . . As she arrived at New Delhi, India, airport for her trans-continental musing, Mia Farrow announced: "I am seeking happiness," and no doubt happily belted a press phog over the moggin, cecastling, "I don't want to see the press anywhere!"

After insisting their billing be changed to "Diana Ross and the Supremes," Diana now insists on separate digs from the other two supremely irritated gals wherever they travel. . . . After his nasty fall on the ice, the Gay 90's oldtime star Billy Lorraine is back trying to sprain his vocal cords; Billy's the fella who (as George Burns' original vaudeville partner) once stuttered terribly (but never when singing); he discovered their theatre was on fire and when he couldn't tell George what he was excited about, George urged Billy: "Sing it!"

The new Samuel Taylor comedy "Avanti!" won't satisfy epicene tastes for a sick-dab theatrical-shock stage eruptions, but it's a stylish, superbly acted, lightheartedly written happy evening of fun. . . . Samuel Taylor is one of the few stage-literary gentlemen with polish, urbanity, a sense of witty sophistication, and he blends it splendidly into a Roman setting in "Avanti," which means "go," and go it does, blithely.

Apart from its sprightly intelligence, it is a glossy vehicle for some expert performances; Keith Baxter plays a Roman institution — the upper-echelon guide who can arrange anything from dinners to removing inhibitions and through a London actor of enormous classical range, he plays the attractively accented Signori Fixit with fabulous lunatic effect.

Jennifer Hilary is entirely plausible as the sort of dream girl a visiting rich and half-stuffed American junior tycoon might villa-up with, all golden and beautifully maxi-logged and mini-skirted and lovely; Robert Reed of the TV tubes is the object of her defection; Betsy von Furslenberg plays the afterthought of American wife whose secure marital status somehow is made to make her seem less a proper domestic heroine than the Other Woman, the villainess, stylish but expendable, at least one month a year.

Madman Muntz in comeback

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Earl W. Muntz—the original "Madman Muntz" who hatched all those crazy advertising capers way back when—is back in business today shooting for his "fourth fortune."

But after losing his first three, he says he's a little more subdued.

Muntz, whose antics in the late 1940s and early 1950s helped sell used cars, new cars and TV sets—in that order—is now selling stereo tape units for automobiles.

"I'm going to hang on to this one (fortune)," Muntz, now bespectacled at 54, said in an interview.

He was in Philadelphia to plug his company, Muntz stereo-pak Co. Van Nuys, Calif.

In six years, from 1949 to 1955, Muntz' name was a household word. He claims he grossed $73 million in that period.

But he says that he expanded too fast, "impatient" creditors moved in and he sought refuge under the Bankruptcy Act.

He began his advertising calisthenics on the West Coast when he coined the name, "Madman," while selling used cars. He started a trend, and soon thereafter, "Raving Ralph," "Honest Henry" and "Looney Lou" popped up in the used car trade.

When Muntz went into TV, he dressed in boots and a Napoleonic coat, adopting a Napoleonic pose.

Competitors charged that he was "crazy like a fox," so Muntz had Napoleon's head removed from advertisements—and a Fox's was painted on instead.

To accent a one-knob picture control on TV, he mailed the knob to prospective customers

Taxpayer gets break in medical expenses

Income tax deductions expanded

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — You could get an extra break on medical costs if you itemize deductions this year.

Listing your deductions—rather than using one of the standard methods—takes a good deal more time but it could save you money, especially if you made monthly payments on a mortgage and paid real estate taxes.

Interest on your mortgage and real estate taxes you pay are both legitimate deductions. But you should have records to back them up.

It's in the medical field, however, where the new benefit comes into play this year. It will permit a medical deduction for anyone who itemizes and has paid medical insurance premiums.

You can now deduct for 1967—but only if you itemize—half the amount up to $150 you paid for medical insurance during the year without regard to the usual limits on medical and dental expenses.

This will help taxpayers who ordinarily would not qualify for a medical deduction.

Normally you can deduct only those medical and dental expenses which exceed 3 per cent of your total income.

But if you paid $140, for example, in medical insurance premiums during 1967 you can deduct $70 of this automatically and the remaining $70 can be included among the medical and dental expenses subject to the per cent floor.

Deduct insurance. Even if you are unable to deduct anything because of this floor, you can still take the deduction for half the health insurance premiums.

Those medicine and drug costs exceeding 1 per cent of total income can also be used to make up the amount subject to the 3 per cent floor.

But remember you can deduct only those medical and dental costs which you pay yourself. Expenses for which you were reimbursed through insurance are not deductible.

For 1968 taxes, persons 65 and over could disregard the 1 per cent and 3 per cent floors on medical deductions but they are now subject to it anew for the tax returns which must be filed by April 15.

If you itemize deductions you must have evidence such as a canceled check or a receipt that you actually spent the money. The Internal Revenue Service can request this proof.

Don't itemize your deductions if you get a better break by using one of the two standard deductions—the 10 per cent or the minimum standard.

If your deductions are complex, it might be worth the 50 cents to buy the 100-page IRS publication "Your Federal Income Tax."

Gasoline tax deductions. The instruction sheets sent to you by IRS include tables on sales and gasoline taxes to help you figure these deductions.

If you plan to itemize it's a good idea to get an early start on your tax return. IRS Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen says the worst job isn't filling out the tax form but getting your spending records together.

An early start can save a lot of headaches later.

If you have a question about a particular deduction, a call to your nearest IRS office will help clear up any misunderstanding.

Now for some specifics. Medical insurance premiums paid by your employer cannot be deducted by you.

In addition to payments to doctors, dentists, nurses and other professional medical people, you can also deduct the cost of getting to the doctor or hospital, such as a taxi ride.

You can also deduct hospital costs paid by you, laboratory and surgical fees, false teeth, eye glasses, hearing aids, crutches, the cost of a seeing eye dog and the dog's maintenance, X-ray examinations and therapy treatments.

A seeing eye dog is a medical expense and not a business expense even if you use the dog in conducting a business.

No "health" trips. Don't try deducting a trip to Florida even if your doctor says it would be healthy. The courts have ruled against this as a deduction.

A deduction might be permitted for a trip to treat a special condition but this would cover only the cost of transportation, not your living expenses. It would be best to check any circumstances with IRS.

In addition to medical expenses, interest on a mortgage and real estate taxes, you can deduct such items as state and local income taxes, personal property taxes, state and local gasoline taxes, general sales taxes, interest on a loan and contributions to churches, united funds, veterans organizations, many colleges and universities, nonprofit hospitals, Boy Scouts and some types of education expenses.

Money spent to send a son or daughter to college cannot be deducted for tax purposes. Neither can the cost of sending a child to a private or parochial school.

If you worked for more than one employer during the year you may be entitled to a credit for social security taxes if you paid more than $290.40. You can claim the excess as a credit on line 18, page 1, of the long form 1040. This is not a deduction but a reduction of your final tax.

Remember, auto license fees are generally no longer deductible. They were several years ago but the law was changed.

Among other expenses which cannot be deducted are political contributions, gifts to labor unions or chambers of commerce, hunting and dog licenses, water taxes, taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages, sales taxes on admissions or room occupancy and other selective sales or excise taxes, travel to and from work and bribes.

You also cannot deduct federal income taxes or social security taxes.

When you've finished, make sure you've signed the return and included your social security number. If it's a joint return make certain your wife has signed and listed her number.

Start preparing your return early; recheck your arithmetic and read the instructions before you begin.

Scout ceremony Feb. 11

Four to receive Eagle award

STROUDSBURG — Four Monroe County youths will be presented with their "Eagle" during a Court of Honor, Sunday, Feb. 11, in the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. Ceremonies will start at 2:30 p.m.

Those to be made Eagle Scouts are Lance Courtwright, James M. Gere, Gary A. Raymond and Jay Rubin.

Courtwright is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Courtwright of Cresco. He is an honor student at Pocono Mountain High School in Swiftwater.

Lance entered scouting when he was eight and progressed through the Cub Scouts and on to Troop 95 in Swiftwater, under Scoutmaster Carl Hamblin.

His scouting activities include patrol leader, junior leadership training camp, counselor at Camp Weygadt, and assistant patrol leader.

Courtwright is a member of Mount Pocono Methodist Church, Methodist Youth Fellowship, Mount Pocono YMCA, Pocono Mountain School Marching Band and Ski Club. He takes part in wrestling, swimming, skiing, boating, hunting, fishing and he plans to further his education after high school.

Gere is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gere Jr. of 2020 Laurel St., Stroudsburg.

He entered scouting at the age of eight and progressed through Cub Scouts to Troop 86, under Scoutmaster James Detrick.

His activities in scouting include attendance at Camp Weygadt, junior leadership training camp, assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and senior patrol leader.

James received the God and Country Award from the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and he was initiated into the Order of the Arrow in 1967.

He recently completed the Civil Defense Self Help Training Course and the American Red Cross Junior First Aid Course.

James is a ninth grade pupil at Stroudsburg High School, a member of the Junior National Honor Society, president of the High School Stamp Club, a member of Pocono Mountain Philatelic Society, Stroudsburg Methodist Church and the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

He plans to attend college when graduated from high school.

Raymond is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Raymond of Stroudsburg, RD 5.

He entered scouting in Stroudsburg with Troop 104 then onto Troop 300, and then to Troop 87 under Scoutmaster Roy Heller.

Stroudsburg Junior

Gary is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg, the Order of the Arrow and is a junior at Stroudsburg High School.

He is active in wrestling and plans to attend college upon graduation.

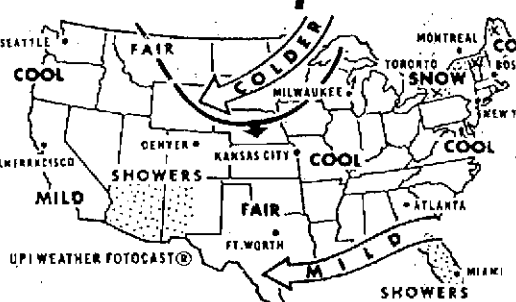

Rubin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Rubin of Stroudsburg, RD 5.

He entered Troop 87 under Scoutmaster Roy Heller and is a member of the Order of the Arrow and Temple Israel.

Jay is in the 11th grade at Blair Academy, Blairstown, N. J., where he is manager of the baseball team and active in football.

He plans to enter college upon graduation.

S-burg woman files action

EASTON — Ella F. Lamont, Stroudsburg, RD 5, has filed an action in Northampton County Court claiming $41,700 from Stephen J. Cerva of Bethlehem for vehicle damages resulting from a collision on Route 115 between Belfast and Wind Gap last Sept. 10. The action was filed by George A. Hahalis.

Two bar owners fined $100

STROUDSBURG — The owners of two area bars were fined $100 each and costs in Monroe County Court Monday after pleading guilty to charges of serving alcoholic beverages after 2 a.m.

Pleading guilty to the charges brought against the Coral Reef, Tannersville, by Liquor Control Board agent, Keith Murray, were Viola Kloth, and Harold and Lorraine Miller.

Murray testified that the charges were brought after he and an assistant purchased alcohol on two separate occasions after the state legal closing hour of 2 a.m.

It was the first liquor violation for the Tannersville tavern, according to Murray.

Also fined $100 each and costs were Al Purdy and Eileen Purdy, owners of Purdy's Place, in Mount Pocono, and charged with the same offense by agent Murray.

WHEN ARE CHILDREN TOO SICK FOR SCHOOL?

Each child has his own pattern of illness. There should be no absolute rules, but the usually healthy child should stay home: (1) if feverish; (2) if symptoms such as hiccups, drowsiness, runny nose, nausea, diarrhea are sufficiently severe to be disabling; (3) if he is likely to disturb others in the class; (4) if it is impossible, due to his ailment, for him to profit from school.

There is no reason, except for rare medical contra-indications, for a child to be in school without immunological protection from the available vaccines.

Bangor sets new budget

BANGOR — Bangor Borough Council formerly adopted its 1968 budget of $291,856 during its meeting Monday night.

The budget has been tentatively adopted during the January meeting and was given final approval Monday.

Patsy DeMario, a resident of the Fourth Ward, appeared before council and complained that he felt he was not getting

Mt. Pocono ponders problems

MOUNT POCONO — Whether to sell the borough front end loader and bulldozer was the question that faced Mount Pocono Council Monday night during its meeting in the municipal building.

Councilman Angelo Batisto said the front end loader was good in case of emergency and vice president Ernest Bisbing said it worked well clearing snow away from fire hydrants.

Roy Gross said the bulldozer needed more than $600 in repairs. He suggested renting a front end loader because the present one is depreciating at a fast rate.

"I think we should advertise and ask for bids, that's the only way we can find out if we can get a good price," William Johnson said.

Council agreed to advertise for bids on both pieces of equipment, reserving the right to reject or accept all bids.

Street lights

The street light committee requested a check on the feasibility of installing three street lights in the borough. Council ordered street light committee chairman Johnson to give a report on the need for the lights during the next meeting.

The sanitation committee reported on dumping of soot into drains near the A & P Store and the difficulty of the borough garbage truck getting down into resident's driveways for pickup.

It was suggested that when a driveway is icy the residents bring the garbage up to the top of the driveway.

Council ordered the street committee to contact Road Supervisor Ike DeLaven for an April survey of the borough streets. Bisbing said April is the month when the streets should be checked, after the frost has left the ground.

"That's when the roads break up, when the frost goes out," Bisbing said.

Council reactivated the recreation committee and appointed new members to replace members whose terms had expired.

Abbruzzese named to school panel

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John Abbruzzese, assistant Monroe County Superintendent of Schools, has been selected as a member of a three-man panel created to evaluate the graduate psychology program at Temple University.

The announcement was made Monday night during a meeting of the Monroe County School Board.

According to Dr. Abbruzzese, he will serve on the committee with a representative of the state Department of Public Instruction, and a professor at Pennsylvania State University during a March meeting at the Philadelphia University.

In other school board business, it was approved that county employed teachers be allowed to enter into a payroll deduction retirement plan with private insurance companies.

his share of borough work as an equipment contractor. He felt that since he has the men and equipment such jobs as snow removal should be made available to him.

Council told him to submit in writing his rates for equipment rental.

Sherwood Evers, treasurer, reported a balance of $2,116 in the general fund; $752 in the State Highway aid fund, and $4,197 in the building and property fund.

Bills totaling $9,372.89 were approved for payment.

The Bangor Zoning Board reported a balance of $56.

Mayor William D. Scott reported receipts of $2,686 for the month. They were collected as follows: licenses, $1,410; fines, $372; and digging permits, $90; parking meters, $897.

Council authorized the finance committee to borrow a total of $10,000 from the two Bangor Banks to meet current expenses.

John Cascioli, chairman of the street committee, reported that his committee recommended that parking be permitted on the west side of Eighth Street, near the Joseph Falcone property and a 15-minute parking zone be near the Cortazzo property on that street.

Council approved this amendment to the parking ordinance.

A matter of water complaints on S. Third Street was placed in the hands of the street committee for correction.

Police charge S-burg man in accident

STOCKERTOWN — A Stroudsburg, RD 2, man was charged with reckless driving Sunday night after a five car crash in Stockertown. No injuries were reported.

According to Stockertown Police, Archie P. Reynolds, 48, was traveling north on Main Street and struck the rear of a parked car owned by Charles Rossnagle, Phillipsburg, RD 1, N. J., forcing it into the parked car of Frank C. Mengel, Sr. of Easton, RD 1.

Reynolds then continued north and sideswiped the parked car of Stanley S. Kratzer of 44 Rose Inn Ave., Nazareth, and Carl K. Unger of 417 Main St., Stockertown. The Reynolds car then hit a utility pole and came to a stop.

East Bangor accepts oil bid

EAST BANGOR — East Bangor Council Monday night approved nine men to serve as special policemen.

Men named to serve are Roy Shuster, Warren Gilbert, Wayne Jones, Luther Kichline, Vincent Meixell, James Lanson, Delmore Smith, Raymond Eldridge, and James Hamm, Jr.

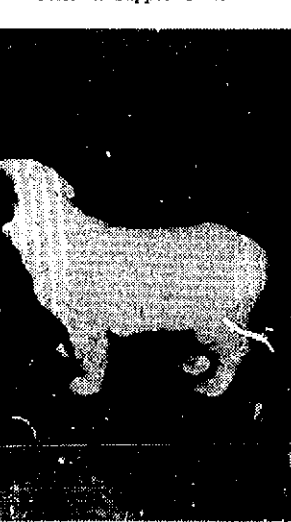

In other action, council approved Archie Brown as a forman in the fire company to replace Luther Young who retired recently. Council then named Marvin Hill as a driver to replace Brown.

A fuel oil bid was awarded to Hower & Son of Bangor.

The property committee reported the furnace in the borough hall was in need of repairs.

Pastors clarify diocesan aid

MOUNT POCONO — Three Catholic pastors, who constitute the school board for Pocono Central Catholic High School, said Monday they would welcome any contributions from the Bishop McCormack Fund Drive, which is presently underway.

The statement was aimed at clarifying a report in Monday's Record, which said the school was in need of outside financial aid.

The clarification was made by Msgr. C. A. McHugh, pastor of Pocono Catholic Missions, Mt. Pocono; Msgr. Joseph Quinn, pastor of St. Ann's Parish, Tobyhanna, and the Rev. Andrew Maloney, pastor of St. Bernadette's Parish, Canadensis.

Originally, the school was called Pocono Catholic Missions School and was controlled by the missions parish.

Last June, after a diocesan reorganization, the school was renamed Pocono Central Catholic and became the responsibility of the three parishes.

Msgr. McHugh and Father Maloney said "financial help from the diocese during this current fund drive is vital to assist with the school debt in our parishes."

Msgr. McHugh said that he wanted to indicate in Monday's paper that financial help from the diocese did not appear necessary in the Mount Pocono parish during the construction of the school.

"However, I would welcome a fair share of the current fund drive, which is being supported by area Catholics. The aid has been offered by diocesan officials for debt retirement."

Water Gap council worried over borough's future needs

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Planning for the future was the main topic of concern during the Delaware Water Gap Borough Council meeting Monday night.

The areas of concern were the borough's water supply, salary schedule and training program for employees, and the future growth of the community through expanded business.

The borough's watershed will be acquired by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area. The borough of Portland, a few miles away, has the same plight.

The Interior Department long ago informed the borough that it would have adequate water supply with its three wells. Officials are pessimistic about the long range production of the wells.

To solve the water problem, council members plan to hire a professional engineering firm to make a study of the water situation and make a recommendation.

Specifically, explained Stephen Matos, new council president, the council is concerned whether it should have all wells and store water or maintain a reservoir system or possibly both.

Borough Council intends to interview several engineering firms to conduct the proposed study.

Roswell S. McMullen Jr., a representative from the environmental engineering department of Gilbert Associates, Inc. Reading, an engineering consultant firm, verbally presented a proposed outline to officials what his firm would do for the borough.

At a cost of approximately $1,500 to $3,000, the firm would study the current water supplies, the estimated consumption, future needs and from what source the future water needs will be supplied with.

McMullen said he will present a detailed outline to the council pinpointing what the firm would do for the borough. He said the work would take about four to six months.

Matos said the council later will compare the Gilbert firm's proposals with those expected from other firms before a decision is reached.

Chief of salary

Councilmen also placed William Snow, the borough's police chief on a salary basis. Prior to last night, councilmen several times discussed whether Snow should be paid by the hour or placed on a salary. Snow, although he is employed at Ronson, is on call for any emergencies. The council unanimously decided to pay him $50 weekly.

The Council also received seven applications from individuals to fill the vacancy of Robert Smith, who was the borough's only full-time employee. Smith was the police chief, water superintendent, street superintendent and sanitation department superintendent.

Four of the applicants will be interviewed by the full council this weekend.

Councilmen had then resumed what has turned into monthly discussions on salaries for employees. The majority of the councilmen felt that employees should be given a raise.

But the extent of the raise couldn't be determined. Matos also said that a wage ceiling should be set for employees since the borough couldn't afford to continually give raises. The finance committee was instructed to study the recommendations.

In other action, Solicitor Harry Lee detailed development of the annexation suit filed by the Smithfield Township Supervisors involving Howard Johnson's.

Lee said a taxpayer suit had also been filed by township residents opposing the proposed annexation of Howard Johnson's into the Borough of Delaware Water Gap. He said the Stroudsburg School District may file a similar complaint.

Complaint answered

Lee said that he had answered the Smithfield Township Supervisors' legal complaint over the annexation. He said that he denied the allegations made by Smithfield Township that the annexation would be detrimental to the public interest.

He explained that he pointed out the borough would lose more proportionately in taxable land to the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area than the township. He also pointed out that the borough will provide services while the township would not.

In other action, the Council decided to advertise an intent to adopt an ordinance for a one per cent real estate transfer tax.

The Council, on January 23, passed a motion for a one per cent realty transfer tax. Lee said, however, that legally, the Council had to approve a motion stating the intent to adopt an ordinance for the tax.

The ordinance will legally be adopted at the next council session. The Borough would then receive one half of the real estate transfer tax. The one per cent is shared with the Stroudsburg School District.

County approves food stamp plan

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners Monday unanimously approved a motion by Republican Mrs. Nancy B. Shukatis to adopt a Food Stamp Program in Monroe County starting June 1.

In a related matter, the board dismissed Mrs. Sara Price, Surplus Food Director, upon a motion by Republican chairman Elwood Hintze.

Mrs. Price, wife of former Republican county commissioner John Price, has been given two weeks notice to vacate her $95 per week job.

The County will utilize chief clerk William Reaser and Surplus Food part-time employees to aid in the "phasing out" of the present program.

The board will meet in Harrisburg Feb. 15, with state officials, to discuss the implementation of the Food Stamp Program that is estimated to cost the county $3,000 per year.

Too much

According to Hintze, "the county has been paying nearly $9,000 per year for the Surplus Food Program. He charged this figure was "too much."

In a prepared statement by the board, it was stated that the operations of the Surplus Food Program was reviewed May 19, 1967, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Surplus Food of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The statement said that the former county commissioners were advised that "the cost of operations appears to be out of line to the case load served," and that a full-time employee was not warranted.

In the joint statement, the commissioners said that "Upon our own investigation of the matter, it indicated clearly the county could dispense with the services of the full-time administrator of the Surplus Food Office, and continue on with the part-time employees, under the supervision of the Chief Clerk, thus saving the sum of $95 per week between now and June 1."

The motion also reads, "In view of the above, I move that Sara Price, the full-time employee in charge of the Surplus Food Office, be discharged with two weeks notice, and that the Chief Clerk take over the supervision of the program and office, having as his assistants the present part-time employees."

The program, which will allow persons authorized by the county public assistance board to purchase food at local stores by use of stamps, has been fully explained to the board by Donald J. Dougherty, field office of public assistance, and Robert J. Freiler, director of the state Bureau of Surplus Food.

Student jobs

In other business during Monday's meeting, Dr. Kurt Wimer, head of the Social Studies Department at East Stroudsburg State College, presented a request for $250 in county funds as a partial payment for a program aimed at employing a college student on a 10-week basis during the summer months for the purpose of learning the functions of government.

The program, according to Dr. Wimer, is sponsored by the Fels Institute, which would furnish a $500 grant upon guarantee of $250 from the county.

Miss Jorene Jameson, a junior political science major at ESSC, was present during the meeting as the candidate for the new program.

Dr. Wimer said the program, basically, is to get college trained people into politics, and the employment would only cost the county $25 per week if the plan is accepted.

Miss Jameson told the board her ambition is to "work in government and that she would be most interested in working in local government."

"This has always been my interest," she added.

Mrs. Nancy Shukatis asked if the idea might not be setting a precedent as "there is no area" in the county budget for education and if the student is accepted for the program "how would we say no to others?"

Dr. Wimer told the board there are few applicants for similar programs and the Fels Plan for which Jameson has applied allows only one student per county.

The board said it would take the request under advisement and inform Dr. Wimer of its decision.

In another matter, the commissioners appointed Atty.

Samuel Newman, "special solicitor" at no compensation to complete details of a tax settlement with the Pinebrook Camp.

The final agreement must be signed by Newman who was the county solicitor at the time of a court battle over the camp's alleged tax-exempt status.

Virginia Anthony has been appointed as occupation tax assessor in Ross Twp.

Fred Rhodes, postmaster, released the official figure late Monday afternoon.

A $75,000 figure released Sunday was given by postal inspectors from Philadelphia.

The stamps were in denominations of from a penny to $1.

The stamps hauled away weighed about 100 pounds, Rhodes said.

The burglary and theft Sunday is the fourth unsolved post office job in Monroe County during recent years.

The Tobyhanna Post Office was burglarized in 1955 as was the Saylorburg Post Office.

On Jan. 12, 1967, an undisclosed amount of money and stamps were taken from the East Stroudsburg Post Office.

In March, 1967, the Delaware Water Gap Post Office was robbed of more than $1,200 in stamps and cash.

The last time the Stroudsburg Post Office was burglarized was in 1935.

County jail gets wide screen

STROUDSBURG — The FBI has moved into the Monroe County Jail.

For that matter, so has the New York City Police Department and Sgt. Friday's Dragnet squad.

Conditions at the jail aren't really that serious but a new recreational facility in the form of a television set purchased by the prisoners could have the ready-made critics watching the popular police programs, and in the afternoon hours what could be more appropriate than old reruns of the Fugitive?

Larceny brings jail term

STROUDSBURG — A Plainfield, N. J., man was sentenced to from one and one half to three years in the State Correctional Institution on charges of larceny Monday in Monroe County Court by President Judge Arlington W. Williams.

George Hamilton pleaded guilty to the charges Jan. 9, 1968, waiving right to action by the Grand Jury.

Hamilton was also fined $100 and costs and ordered to make restitution for the stolen $200.

He will be transported to the institution in Philadelphia by Sheriff Forrest Sebring.

Other sentences

In other sentences Monday, a Bethlehem teenager was ordered to pay a one dollar fine and costs plus $74 in bills and legal costs after pleading guilty to a morals charge and waiving Grand Jury action.

Robert Martin, 19, Bethlehem, was ordered to pay the court fine in a period of 10 days and the $74 over a period of six months.

Sentence was deferred for John A. Pepla, Mt. Pocono, after he pleaded guilty to charges of burglary brought by Robert C. Hartman, Mt. Pocono Police.

Judge Williams will pronounce sentence upon completion of a pre-sentence investigation.

A Canadensis man was fined $200 and costs after pleading guilty to charges of failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

Fred B. Ecker, Seese Hill Rd., Canadensis, was fined by Judge Williams after waiving representation by counsel and Grand Jury action.

William L. Hall, East Stroudsburg, was sentenced to six months in jail and $100 fine and a concurrent six month sentence and $150 and costs after pleading guilty to charges of driving without a license.

He pleaded guilty Jan. 9 to the charges and waived Grand Jury action.

Joseph, whose brother, George Joseph, Lehigh County district attorney, ran for Congress against Rep. Fred B. Rooney two years ago, has been a broker in Lehigh, Rhodes' Stroudsburg office for the last 10 years.

He lives in Marshall's Creek with his wife, Jane, and three children, Lisa Jane, eight; John, seven, and James, five.

Milford approves $50,500 budget

MILFORD — The Milford Borough Council Monday night unanimously approved a $50,500 budget for 1968 that calls for a two mill tax increase raising the borough millage to .23.

The new budget is a $5,350 increase from last year with the largest listed expenditure a $13,350 amount allocated for the borough street department.

Dr. John Abbruzzese

Educator to head seal drive

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John A. Abbruzzese, Jr., will again be chairman for the Easter Seal Campaign for 1968 after serving for the 1967 campaign.

The announcement was made by Dr. Lura Evans, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Monroe County.

Dr. Abbruzzese has lived in Monroe County since 1958. He is a native of Pittsburgh where he served the schools of Allegheny County as a teacher and psychologist. His professional activities in Monroe County include service to the schools as a psychologist and since 1966 as the assistant county superintendent of school.

He is also engaged in the private practice of psychology and is staff psychologist for the Burnley Workshop.

Dr. Abbruzzese has served on many boards and committees and is also active in local, state and national professional organizations.

The Easter Seal Campaign provides necessary funds for services for the handicapped of Monroe County. The campaign will begin Monday, March 4, and will continue until Easter Sunday, April 14.

Grand Jury meets today

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Grand Jury will meet at 9 a.m. today in the Monroe County Courthouse with arraignments scheduled for Thursday.

It appears now that the only way ESSC can prove its losses to Bloomsburg and Luck Haven were "flukes" is by taking all the marbles in the PSSC tournament to be held March 1 and 2 in Koehler Field House.

Advance ticket sales have already started and indications are that the matches, especially Saturday's semi-finals and finals, will be completely sold out.

Head coach Red Witman has announced that 1,000 reserved seats are on sale for people desiring an assured seat. Reserved seats from any one of the first three sessions will cost $1.50 and the finals will be $2.00. A complete packet of tickets for all four rounds will cost only $4.00.

General admission for each of the first three rounds will be $1.25 and the finals $1.50. Student tickets are 50 cents and 75 cents for the finals. Persons interested in securing tickets should write Coach Clyde Witman at East Stroudsburg State College.

ESSC has lost only three bouts in its last 27 dual meets and each has been by one point. Two years ago the Warriors lost 18-17 to Indiana State of Terre Haute, Indiana. ESSC then won its next 22 straight before bowing in mid-January to Bloomsburg, 19-18.

The third came Saturday night at Luck Haven, 20-19.

If we wanted to make excuses for the Warriors we could list at least six "ifs" where they could have won the match.

1. If Frank Coco had managed to stay off his back.
2. If Steve Bryant hadn't gotten pinned.
3. If co-captain Ned Bushong hadn't been held to a draw.
4. If Dan Rossi hadn't been in a draw.
5. If Gary Cook had pined a sophomore at 191.
6. If Rick Schumacher had been able to catch up with Bob Metz in the unlimited bout and been able to take advantage of his 45-pound edge in weight.

Then too, you can always look back at some of the calls by referee Art McCall and second guess him.

Witman felt McCall, head coach at Upper Darby High School, worked a good bout except in the heavyweight class. This writer and Record News Editor Gil Murray both felt McCall was especially stingy when it came to awarding points for predicaments. In Bushong's bout several times he had Bob Larson over but was awarded no points.

Schumacher was a tired boy at the end of his eight minutes on the mat but it was not from wrestling. He was tired from chasing Metz around the mat for the entire three periods. With the exception of Ken Melchior (115) and Shane Foley (123), the Bald Eagles do not appear to have an overpowering squad. Veterans Jim Blacksmith (160) and John Smith (167) are tough but this is the first year either of them has come out a winner in the dual meet against ESSC.

Where are the fans?

Fans from other schools continue to be amazed at the "following" the Stroudsburg High wrestling team has at its home meets.

Several times in the last two weeks we've been asked that question and all we can do is shrug our shoulders. It still seems the only faces you see in the crowd (this goes for both students and adults) are the same ones that turned out for the opener with Wyoming Area West back in early December.

It's harder to try and find the reason for the lack of attendance when you get reports from Pocono Mountain and East Stroudsburg on their crowds. Dick Merring, Eastburg coach, told us that the old gym was packed for the Southern Lehigh match Saturday night and they may have to wrestle Stroudsburg in the Tom Waring Gymnasium.

Since becoming a rabid wrestling fan, we don't know when we've seen a performance by a high school team as we did last week by S-burg against Whitehall.

Chet Dalgiewicz has done a remarkable job in rebuilding the team at the start of the season and again late in the season after losing four starters for the year.

Dalgiewicz feels that his boys are just beginning to get confident in their moves and aren't afraid to use them. With the likes of Nick Scerbo, Dale Heller, Ernie Neyhart and Terry Bush on the sidelines, the Mounties may have a tough time repeating as champions in the Lehigh Valley League tournament. But if the Mounties continue to improve it could be that the trophy will again be theirs when they leave Catasauqua High on the night of Feb. 17.

The wrestlers will also be shooting for a berth in the District 11 tournament that night in Catasauqua. This year the league tournament is also a sectional qualifying round with the league champions advancing to the quarterfinals.

Third card canceled at Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Horsemen boycotting for larger purses forced cancellation of a third session of racing at Santa Anita when they failed to submit entries Monday for Tuesday's card.

The State of California then officially entered the picture when the Horse Racing Board asked disputing parties to appear before its meeting Tuesday in Los Angeles.

Charles Harmon, secretary of the racing board, said it is requesting reports on the situation from both the horsemen and the track management.

Programs had been called off both Friday and Saturday when horse owners supported their demands for more money by not entering races. No racing was scheduled Sunday or Monday.

Horsemen ask the track to return 47 per cent of its share of pari-mutuel betting income to the owners. In purses, California tracks for 16 years have returned 40 per cent although Santa Anita, on Jan. 25, boosted it to 41.

Sawchuk lost for one week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Injured goalie Terry Sawchuk will be lost to the Los Angeles Kings hockey team for at least a week, the National Hockey League club announced Monday.

Sawchuk, 38, was hit over the right eye Sunday night in Chicago by a puck fired by Pit Martin.

Khaled dead

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Khaled, the stallion who sired Kentucky Derby winner Swaps and many others champions, is dead.

It was learned at Santa Anita on Monday that Khaled died last Wednesday at the Ellsworth Ranch near Chino.

The son of Hyperion was 25.

Accidents, political bickering hit Olympics

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — A series of serious skiing accidents, a mild epidemic of food poisoning and fresh political bickering threw a discouraging blanket over this teaming Alpine resort Monday on the eve of the official opening of the Winter Olympic Games.

The harshest tragedy occurred on the Alpine trail of Chamrousse, 18 miles East, where Robin Morning of Santa Monica, Calif. broke her right leg in two places in a freak accident.

Red Hebron of Canada, a downhill racer, suffered a shoulder injury and Wendy Allen of San Pedro, Calif., a U.S. Alpine star, suffered a cut over an eye when she hit a pole during a practice downhill run.

Miss Morning, rushed to a hospital by helicopter, is definitely lost for the games. Hebron is doubtful. Miss Allen is expected to be ready to go.

Meanwhile, at Grenoble, three members of the U.S. speed skating team—Bill Lanigan of New York, 16-year-old Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., and Tony Joan Dorgan of Springfield, Ill., were forced out of training by stomach upsets believed caused by food poisoning.

Miss Morning's accident was a freak one because the spill came as she was skiing to the start of a course for a trial run. Lanigan is America's top hope in the men's 1,500-meter race and Miss Holum, third in the world's championship 500, figured to be the best bet in that event. Coach Ken Henry said he hoped all three would be all right.

Coach Ken Henry said he hoped all three would be all right.

The political squabble in-involved a row between the U.S. Olympic Committee and the International Ski Federation, which controls the sports throughout the world.

First, the FIS banned the use of commercial names on skis, warning anyone guilty of using them would be barred from the games. Then the FIS reversed itself and said the trade names would be allowed.

Avery Brundage, President of the IOC and a strident voice in the maintenance of pure amateurism in sport, called a special meeting of the IOC's executive board for Tuesday morning in the hope of resolving the thorny issue.

A compromise appeared to be shaping up on the ski brand issue. An FIS official met with captains of ski teams and it was agreed skiers would use the utmost discretion in displaying their equipment.

Then Yuri Mashin, the head of the Soviet delegation, brought politics into the picture. He called a press conference and denounced what he called American "aggression" in Vietnam.

Alain Calmat, the former French figure skating star who will light the official flame for Tuesday's opening, made his run up the stadium steps and then couldn't get the lamp to ignite. Technicians were called in for a feverish repair.

And the weatherman said the 80,000 expected to witness the 1½ hour opening extravaganza should bring their umbrellas. The forecast is for rain or snow with temperatures in the 40s, with a strong wind from the southwest.

The featured actor in the carefully prepared opening day extravaganza—Gen. Charles de Gaulle—arrived in Grenoble Monday night by special train from Paris.

De Gaulle will officially open the games Tuesday.

The ceremonies start at 3 p.m. local time (9 a.m. EST).

Action will start quickly. The United States and Czechoslovakia will take to the ice in the Stade de Glace for the opening ice hockey game of the championship tournament. The Czechs are favored.

Early Wednesday morning, competition begins in the ladies figure skating, the men's downhill ski race and the men's 30-kilometer cross-country.

The first heats of the two-man bobsled event will be raced, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Sunday is deadline for tourney

STROUDSBURG — The closing date for bowlers to enter the Monroe County Men's Bowling Association Championships (scratch and handicap) is this coming Sunday. Only bowlers affiliated with leagues in Monroe County are eligible.

All previous highs for entries have been exceeded with this year's enrollments. At present 138 teams, 203 doubles, 380 singles and 300 all-events applications have been turned in. Previous highs were 138 teams; 173 doubles, 305 singles and 267 all-events.

Openings are still available for teams, four on Feb. 17 and two on Feb. 24 all at 1 p.m. In doubles and singles openings on March 9 are seven places at 2:30 p.m.; March 12, one single; and March 23, 12 openings at 1 p.m. and four places at 2:30.

All entry fees must be paid by Thursday, Feb. 15. Entry blanks may be picked up at any of the lanes in the county.

Last year's first place winners were scratch team, Altier's Big A; doubles, Frank Bell and Carl Kohl; singles, Kohn, and all-events, Jim Harmon Jr.

Handicap team, Frank and Fred's Tavern; doubles, John Lance and Robert W. Singer; singles, Fred A. Strunk, and all-events, Robert W. Singer.

Open tennis has come to stay

LONDON (AP) — The British believe they have almost won the battle for Open tennis, with the United States as their ally.

Herman David, chairman of the All-England Club which plans to throw this year's Wimbledon open to pros and amateurs, said Monday:

"Now that the Americans have sided with us, I feel Open tennis has come to stay."

The United States Lawn Tennis Association decided at Coronado, Calif., last Saturday to support Open tennis. It threatened to withdraw from the International Lawn Tennis Federation if the rules are not changed to make open tournaments legal.

The news from Coronado was sweet music to the British, who have openly defied the ILTF and announced they are abolishing all distinctions between professionals and amateurs from April 22.

As of that date, Britain faces suspension by order of the ILTF's president, Giorgio di Stefano of Italy. But a special meeting of the ILTF has been called in Paris at the end of March.

Russian sets speed mark

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Ludmilla Titova of Russia skated the 500 meters in 45.8 seconds Monday to set a course record for the speed skating rink here, built specially for the 10th Winter Olympics opening Tuesday.

Close behind her was Jenny Fish, 18, of Strongsville, Ohio, in 45.9. It was the first time trials on the course for the women Olympic competitors, who skated in international pairs.

For the American girls it was also their last chance to make the Olympic squad.

Houston's lead is reduced to mere 8 points by UCLA

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The UCLA Bruins have cut Houston's first-place margin to a mere eight points in the latest Associated Press weekly major-college basketball poll. New Mexico State is the only newly-rated team.

The unbeaten Cougars collected 25 first-place votes to UCLA's eight in the voting by a national panel of 34 sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday.

Stroudsburg shooters win pair

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg High rifle team went over the 500 mark Monday as it outshot both Abington Heights and Northampton High Schools.

Now 6-5, the Mounties had a score of 496.29x as compared to 487.21x for Northampton and 487.20x for Abington.

Top shooters for S-burg were Mike Lee, 109.6x; Gary Meekes, 109.6x; Ken Kresge, 99.5x; Brett Druckenmiller, 99.6x; and Barbara Pintarich, 98.6x. Tops for the kids were J. Cervia, 96.4x; R. Esslinger, 99.5x; B. Frable, 97.4x; R. Milisits, 97.5x and G. Murphy, 99.3x. For Abington, Tom Freethy had 98.6x; David Keough, 95.3x; Mike Falciaglia, 95.3x; Jerry Jack, 97.3x, and Charles Little, 97.3x.

However, on a point basis, Houston leads the Bruins by only 322 to 314. The Cougars drew eight votes for second place while UCLA had 26 for the No. 2 spot. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Texas at El Paso, 11-4, received the other vote for the top spot, but did not gain a position in the Top Ten.

North Carolina held third place followed in order by St. Bonaventure, Tennessee, New Mexico, Columbia, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and New Mexico State.

Houston beat Fairfield 108-75 and Marshall 102-93 last week. Lifting its record to 20-0, UCLA, 16-1, downed Southern California, 101-67. North Carolina boosted its mark to 14-1 by defeating Florida State and Maryland.

The Top Ten, with total votes, through games of Sat. Feb. 3:

1. Houston 322
2. UCLA 314
3. North Carolina 263
4. St. Bonaventure 202
5. Tennessee 180
6. New Mexico 158
7. Columbia 91
8. Kentucky 77
9. Vanderbilt 77
10. New Mexico State 44

Koman retires

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran linebacker Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals announced his retirement today from professional football.

Koman, 33, played in the National League for 12 years, nine of them with the Cardinals.

10-point third fatal to Pocahontas

DUNMORE — Dunmore Central outscored Pocahontas 21-10 during the third period Monday night to gain a 36-53 victory in the Catholic League's Northern Division.

The Kingsmen, 9-8 overall and 5-5 in the league, had the upper hand for the first 18 minutes of the game. Pocahontas led 16-12 after the first period and 27-22 at intermission.

But then came the third period drought when Dunmore opened up leads of 12 points twice.

Al Dowalby, held to 13 points in the first three periods (seven in the first half), led a fourth period surge by the Kingsmen that brought them to within two. Dowalby had eight in the final period to finish with 21 points, about seven points below his average.

Joe Lewis and Capt. Norb DeMars were also in double figures with 16 and 11 points in that order. John Croti had 17 and Bob Egan 14 to lead the winners.

Degrading incidents

In the past two or three days, a series of degrading — I can think of no softer word — incidents have taken place in "amateur" athletics in the sovereign State of California.

First, an undergraduate player at UCLA of indeterminate skills and maturity has been able, through the public prints, to cast doubt on and tarnish the record of a man who was coaching successful, not to say championship, basketball before he was born.

Then, a young man up at the University of California, an institution which has given to the world Nobel Prize winners and has helped most importantly in unlocking the secrets of matter in the universe, got himself on Page 1 by serving up demands on that institution on behalf of some athletes who were in that institution only because it chose to bend some of its own academic requirements downward to admit them in the first place.

Who's at fault in these instances? Those arrogant kids? Their advisers?

Hell, no! The institutions.

Let's take the case of UCLA. Here is a school which has had on its campus the past couple of years the No. 1 college basketball player in the history of the game, the No. 1 college tennis player, a No. 1 rated football team.

That's fine. Except you have to know not one of them just happened to drop by there, or struggled alone and prayerfully through college boards and drafty halls, or scrimped and saved to get there. UCLA sent a limousine after them, so to speak.

Arthur Ashe is as fine a gentleman as he is tennis player (most athletes are, to be honest) but here is how it looks to Arthur, as quoted in his biography: "That (note: his education) cost some UCLA people a lot of money and I'm grateful." But, he adds almost at once: "I think I've MORE THAN (note: emphasis mine) repaid UCLA for the scholarship. They brought me in to win and I did."

There you have it. A simple business proposition to the kid. Quid pro quo. The account is paid in full, fellows. He elaborates by reciting the number of tournaments he's won, wearing the UCLA blue. He concludes: "If image means anything to a university — and let's not kid, it means a lot to UCLA — I think I've helped UCLA's image a little."

If it were my school, I'd blush. I don't mean to tattoo Arthur because the same rich crop of "They helped me, I helped them" pops up in dozens of printed memoirs of lettermen from Jim Brown down to current pros.

Let me ask you something: Why does any super-reputable college institution need THAT kind of recognition? The Intercollegiate Singles and Doubles, for crying out loud? The highest-scoring basketball team and player in the country?

Aren't colleges supposed to develop cures for cancer, breakthroughs in optics or chemistry, philosophers, physicists, statesmen? Ralph Bunche? Glenn Seaborg?

Yet, whom do they court? For whom do they elasticize academic rules, provide tours, get outside jobs, plush apartments, free books, clothes? Whom do they manage to convince they are the elite of our civilization? Athletes, that's who.

Small wonder these kids begin to behave like the military leader class of Europe of the last century — rebellious, censorious, sullen at being passed over for promotion or praise. Of dubious worth in the real conflicts of life.

Do YOU care whether UCLA wins the NCAA? Do I? Should society?

How much longer do we woo these young popinjays in sneakers, water-walkers in shoulder pads, till they lose all perspective of where they really fit in the grand scheme of things?

When do we stop permitting pseudo-students to command the day's major domestic headlines — 19-year-old Solomons carrying more type than they've read in their lifetime.

Let's stop adoring alumni, the street corner fans, the rest of the coterie of perpetual sophomores from giving these kids a distorted idea that the world's greatest need is for dunk shots, touchdown runs, world record times, or service aces.

The next kid I want to see quoted criticizing the faculty is the kid who can say with a straight face, "Listen, if you don't treat me nicer, I'll destroy all my experiments for a cancer cure, and I'll stop perfecting my new heart transplant technique."

I mean, what can you cure with a football? The world isn't a track meet, is it? I want kids coming out of college whose trophies are walking around with new hearts, or new countries, or new insights, and who think of their college career as a wonderful adventure, not as "Ah, I paid them back!" We don't need "Mr. Touchdown U.S.A." or "The Bib Z" or the Big X or the Big Alphabet of any kind except perhaps the Big Why.

ALL STAR GAME AT HOUSTON, JULY 9

* Night Game

Pittsburgh is helping prove critics wrong

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A titter of laughter rippled through the National Hockey League last year when officials announced that the winner of the expansion division would meet the winner of the established division in the Stanley Cup final series.

"No contest," snorted the critics.

But each Red Sullivan didn't share in the laughter. And he believes that now he and his Pittsburgh Penguins are helping prove the critics wrong.

Saturday night the Penguins came from behind to tie the defending champion Toronto 3-3 and become the first expansion team to take a season's series from an established team.

Pittsburgh took the series 2-1.

"I've always said the playoffs would be no cakewalk for the East," Sullivan said Monday. "Whoever is lucky enough to get into the finals from our division is going to have a pretty good hockey team."

The Penguins must move out of fifth place in the West Division to get into the Stanley Cup playoffs. But so far they've fared almost as well against the old teams as the new. Pittsburgh is 6-10-2 against the East and 12-14-6 in their own division.

Sullivan says Pittsburgh has played harder all year against the established teams.

Why? "I can't put my finger on it. I believe they have a tendency not to work quite so hard against the new clubs," he said. "Our checking against the new clubs has left a lot to be desired."

Sullivan gave goalie Les Binkley much of the credit for preserving the tie against Toronto.

Binkley, a 32-year-old rookie with five shutouts to his credit, stopped 34 shots, including a point-blank shot by Toronto's Murray Oliver on a breakaway.

Sullivan said the aging players like Binkley have to take rests during the long season, but could be used more in a short series, like the Cup playoffs.

He said he wouldn't hesitate to use Binkley for four straight games during the playoffs.

"Anything can happen in a short series," said Sullivan. "But right now I'm concentrating on getting this club into the playoffs."

Female athletes don't mind test

CHAMROUSSE, France (AP) — Bunny Fields, a pet British Alpine skier, burst into loud laughter and said, "I think it's a ball, really. Personally, I can't wait to take the test."

"It's not funny for some, added Austria's striking Dike Eger German, in a more somber note. "None of us would want to race against men."

The Alpine women skiers, among the most beautiful and feminine in the Winter Olympics, are both amused and chagrined by directives that they must be subjected to saliva tests to determine if they are really women.

"It seems a bit ridiculous, and a wasted effort in some ways," said Karen Budge of Jackson, Wyo., a slalom specialist.

It certainly is in Karen's case. She is a willowy blonde, 5-foot-8, with the figure of a Las Vegas show girl.

Most of the girls here are happy that they look like girls and they're not mad at the Olympic Committee for perhaps doubting it.

The rumblings about Olympic sex started last summer when Poland's track star, Ewa Klobukowska, was disqualified from the European Cup track meet in Kiev on the basis of a chromosome count.

There are 16 chromosomes in the human body, which are referred to medically as XX's for women and XY's for men. It is a test shows an imbalance of these chromosomes, a woman athlete can be declared ineligible.

So before the ladies in these Winter Olympics, opening Tuesday, take to the ski slopes and ice rinks, they must undergo a saliva test. The results are known in 36 hours.

Some of the competitors already have undergone the tests.

Mikita wins 2 awards for first half

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks has been voted both the National Hockey League's Most Valuable Player and its most gentlemanly player for the first half of the 1967-68 season.

The results of the mid-season balloting for two other awards also were announced Tuesday.

Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins was named the best defenseman and Derek Sanderson, a Bruins' forward, was chosen the outstanding rookie.

The voting was by the circuit's 12 coaches.

Mikita, a flashy center who paces the league in scoring, had a slim lead in the Hart Memorial Trophy balloting for MVP and for the Lady Byng Trophy. The latter is given for a combination of superior play and gentlemanly conduct. Mikita captured both awards last season.

Mikita will receive $500 from the league for leading in two categories. Orr and Sanderson will get $250 each.

Another vote will be held at the end of the season and players with the most points for both halves will be named the official trophy winners.

Mikita drew 34 points for MVP, two more than teammate Bobby Hull. Orr placed third with 29.

In the Lady Byng voting, Mikita also had a two-point edge — 41 to 39 over Boston veteran Johnny Bucyk.

Phillies sign three players

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Friday three more players have signed contracts for the 1968 baseball season, leaving only 18 players unsigned.

Those who signed were infielder-outfielder Gary Sutherland, who hit .247 while playing in 163 games last season; right-handed pitcher Larry Colton, 14-14 in the Pacific Coast League last year, and relief pitcher Dick Thoenen, 6-2 with San Diego last year.

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — Tad Schroeder, an assistant coach at West Point, was named football coach at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy Friday.

Skiathon set for March 2

HAWLEY — The world's second endurance test for skiers will take place at the Pocono-Ski Area in Hawley, Saturday, March 2.

Although the name has been changed from "Marathon" to the more appropriate "Skiathon," details released this week indicate the general format will be very similar to last year's successful event that attracted nationwide interest.

Ray Carriek, manager, explained that any skier from beginner to expert may enter since skiing skill or technique is not judged.

An innovation, this year, will be special awards to the junior boy and junior girl who remain in the contest for the longest time, as well as a similar award to the lady who outlasts her female competition.

The Skiathon starts at noon Saturday with skiing continuing through the night. Contestants must not stop or fall under penalty of disqualification. Refreshments can be provided by an assistant while contestant is in the lift line or at any of the ten minute rest periods scheduled every four hours.

Since health authorities have set 8 p.m. Sunday, as a maximum endurance safety limit, the possibility of a tie will be eliminated by Phase II in which lift trips are counted. Last year, Phase II began Sunday morning and provided added excitement throughout the day.

The 1968 Skiathon champion will be the last skier in competition or the contestant with the most Phase II lift trips in the event of two or more finishers.

An alternate date of March 9th has been set in case of poor snow conditions.

Rules and entry blanks may be obtained by writing POCO-Ski Area, Box 150, Hawley, Pa. Tentative deadline for entries is Wednesday, Feb. 28. Entry fee is $2.50 plus the usual all area lift ticket.

Last year's winners are expected to again compete with numerous other inquiries already received from skiers throughout the middle and northeast.

Ron Shinner of Mountainhome was the first Marathon Champion with Ned Fleming of Dalton, Pa., second and Alex Marsten of Pittsfield, Mass., third.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

The bidding:
South 1 ♠
West 2 ♦
North 3 ♠
East Pass

Opening lead — King of diamonds.

Here is a challenging hand where it is difficult to figure out whether it would be better to declarer at four spades or to be a defender against that contract, assuming best play by both sides.

West leads the king of diamonds. East overtaking with the ace and returning the deuce to the ten. West continues with the queen, and it is plain to see that if dummy ruffs East will overruff and return a trump to eventually defeat the contract one trick.

So declarer, instead of ruffing discards a club from dummy on the queen of diamonds. If East also discards a club, South will later ruff two hearts in dummy to make the contract, while if East discards a heart, South can establish his fourth heart by merely ruffing one heart in dummy.

It therefore looks as though declarer must triumph regardless of what East discards, but, actually, the situation is not quite that simple. East does discard a heart, whereupon West continues with a fourth round of diamonds.

Declarer does best by ruffing in dummy but East then finds the best defensive play of discarding still another heart as South also discards a heart.

At this point it looks as though the defense has finally won the battle since declarer cannot ruff a heart in dummy without being overruffed, but South has still another weapon up his sleeve good enough to triumph in the end.

He draws five rounds of trumps and West, on the last trump, must choose a discard from the Q-10-6 of hearts and A-10 of clubs.

If he discards a heart declarer cashes the A-K of hearts to win the rest of the tricks; if West discards the ten of clubs, declarer enters dummy with a heart, ruffs the jack of clubs, felling the ace, and in that way also makes the rest of the tricks.

Ann Landers

Life put into prose

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-age girl who is searching for some of the answers to life's problems. Can you tell me why everyone wants the future to hurry up and get here? Why can't people enjoy today? The 10-year-olds want to be 13. The 15-year-olds want to be 21. Why is it that the age ahead always seems like the ideal age to be?

I ran across a little poem that expresses this thought well. Here it is:

I plan for the future.
I yearn for the past.
And, meantime, the present
is leaving me fast.

Will you please answer in the paper for the benefit of others who wonder about this, as I do?

CONTENT WITH TODAY
Dear Content: The key to the answer is found in your signature. Because most people are NOT content with today, they look to tomorrow with the hope that it will offer something better. More often than not they are disappointed. The excitement of anticipation generally surpasses realization.

One of the secrets of a happy life is the ability to appreciate the joys and blessings of the present. While it is wise to plan for the future, we should make the most of each day as we live it and keep in mind that today was tomorrow, yesterday.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister and her husband needed a place to live. They have two children and are expecting a third. We rented them our small but lovely home. It was in perfect condition.

After four months they moved out and left 22 holes in the walls, a broken toilet, two broken windows, cigar holes in the kitchen linoleum and garbage in the sink. They refuse to fix anything because it is not their property — they paid rent. Why are relatives such slobs? Shall we sue?

INDIANA
Dear In: Strangers can be slobs, too, but it's worse when they are relatives. You should have had an agreement (in writing) that the renters would leave the house in first-class condition, as they found it. Don't sue. It is messy, expensive and probably useless. Slobs are usually deadbeats as well.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the bride who decided to have three bridesmaids after having invited five girls to be in the wedding party reopened an old wound. Many years ago I was a bridesmaid who was lopped off and I never was able to forgive the girl.

Your advice was right. You told her it didn't make much difference how she worded it, that the friendship would never be the same. How come you are so smart about so many things, Ann? Have you learned from experience?

NO CHICKEN MYSELF

Dear Chick: If I had experienced all the problems I deal with, I'd be in no shape to write a column. What you read here is the result of consultation and brainstorming. I am in constant communication with outstanding authorities in a variety of fields — and they make me look a lot smarter than I am.

Confidential to Your Opinion
Is Wanted: Sorry, but I refuse to put my stamp of approval on mate-finding. "Foundations" or "Institutes" or any computer type device for matching up couples. There is something fundamentally wrong with a person who would be interested in letting a machine make this selection.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TRUDY

British health service patched with red tape

LONDON (AP) — How sick is Britain's much publicized National Health Service? And what can be done to make it well?

Doctors say they are swamped with patients, and are kept so busy filling out forms that their practice of medicine suffers. They say only a more liberal structure might make it work.

But government doesn't seem to be moving that way. More rules and more red tape seem inevitable as a result of the recent economic emergency decision to make most patients pay for their medicine again.

The patients themselves, sitting sometimes for hours in overcrowded doctors' offices and hospital corridors, are sharply divided because of individual experiences. Some can't say enough for state medicine. Some feel even one good word would be too much.

The National Health Service — NHS — was launched with much fanfare by a Labor government July 5, 1948.

The idea was simple and appealed to Socialist principles:

Sickness or an operation should no longer bring the threat of bankruptcy. Treatment, hospitalization, surgical limbs, spectacles, hearing aids, false teeth and even wigs for the bald should be free to everyone.

Cy Barrett Says

The dental business

DEAR CY:

I get pretty fed up seeing those TV commercials on products to keep false teeth securely in the mouth. Last night, however, I got to wondering if maybe this is a huge market. Do most people lose their teeth as they get older, Cy? Dental care costs so much these days I am wondering if it will prevent a loss of teeth. I may wear a hair piece when I get to be 60 or so but don't want false teeth. My teeth are now in good shape although I practically never see a dentist.

WOOD

DEAR WOOD:

The person who sees his dentist only when playing golf during the summer on Wednesday is asking for a costly belt in the mouth. Don't be surprised if you get in the habit, each morning before breakfast, of groping for the glass of water your teeth slept in. Those who go to the dentist only when a toothache demands, you see, lose 500 per cent more teeth than others who schedule regular appointments. According to the U. S. department of health, education and welfare, an estimated 20.1 million Americans (or 18 per cent of our population) have lost all of their natural teeth.

Women had greater tooth loss than men (19.5 per cent vs. 15.5 per cent), and some say it's due more to constant talking than continuous eating. Either way, the American Dental Association reports only about 42 per cent of the population sees a dentist during the course of a year. Something has to be done about this percentage! It seems that while only one per cent of 15-year-old males have lost all their teeth, 50 per cent of those adults 65 years and older said goodbye to theirs.

Maybe this is a ray of hope for those who still believe it's cheaper not to see a dentist: about half of those without their natural teeth (15.8 million people) had sets of artificial teeth which were considered "satisfactory." In a recent government survey, perhaps what they meant is that the stuff sold via TV commercials kept their teeth from falling out before their hair did. A good case can be made for dental adhesives, however.

Just about all of us have talked to someone with false teeth whom we couldn't hear because of background music. Of course, a little active prevention through regular visits to the dentist is worth a mouthful of cure. As a famous dentist once said, "Be true to your teeth and they won't be false to you."
